Murder victim's brother testifies

The first degree murder trial of Barry Provow continued this week in Detroit before Wayne Circuit Court Judge Thomas J. Roumell. Witnesses continued to testify on events pertaining to the Jan. 28 death of Terry Buchman in Canton Township.

Cassandra Field was the the first to take the stand on Monday morning. She testified that she had been in the Canton Township apartment she shared with Lloyd Cash the night of Jah. 27 when Cash, Provow, Leslie Provow and Robert Umney were awaiting the arrival of Gwyn Kirley.

She said she knew the meeting had "something to do with a ring" and "Barry appeared nervous, but nothing special."

Miss Field said she knew they left the house to get beer and when Provow couldn't get his car started, he came back, pointed a rifle at her, and asked for her car keys. She brushed the gun aside and said she wouldn't give him the keys.

CHERYL VOSS, 19, who was Terry Buchman's girl friend, said she was at Buchman's home on Jan. 27 when Umney, Barry and Leslie Provow arrived. She went with them to get beer and "later went to Cash's apartment."

She said that while she was waiting in the kitchen she heard them talking about Kirley. Buchman took her home and then she "took Terry back" to the Cash apartment. "He said would be back by 3 a.m."

When he did not return, she called Cassandra at 3:10 a.m. and that was when she heard Buchman had been shot.

She later testified thet Buchman had been threatened by Provow in her presence.

RANDY GLADSTONE, 20, of Plymouth, testified that he had loaned Robert Umney a 16-gauge Winchester shotgun and a Marlin 22 semi-automatic rifle about 10 p.m. on Jan. 27. He said he did not ask Umney why he wanted them.

The next witness, James Burrell of Northville, identified the shotgun by assembling the gun and pointing out his name on the stock. He said the gun had been stolen from his house while he was vacationing in Florida during Christmas vacation in 1974.

The shotgun and rifle produced as evidence had been in the possession of Umney and the Provows when they were apprehended in Wyoming on Jan. 31.

ROD BURRELL, 22, a cousin of James Burrell and also of Northville Township, said he had known the defendant for a number of years.

He said that about 10 p.m. Jan. 27, Umney came to his home with Leslie and Barry Provow. Umney asked for some 16-gauge shotgun shells and 22-caliber rifle bullets. He said he did not know why they came to him but he gave them the shells.

Also called to testify were Tim Buchman who told when he last saw his brother, Terry, alive, and Robert Kemnitz of Ridge Road, who testified that Lloyd Cash had come to his home in the early morning hours of Jan. 28 and asked to use his telephone. He said Cash had made two calls, one to the police and one to his girl friend.

HERBERT LUTZ, an evidence technician for the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, was the first witness called Tuesday morning.

He examined the gun and identified the shotgun casing and wadding found at the scene of the shooting. He said no .22 caliber rifle shells had been found in the area and no photographs of the area were available because it had been so cold it had slowed the shutter of the camera and blurred the pictures.

The pellet taken from the heart of the victim was identified by David E. Balish of the Michigan State Police Detroit crime laboratory.

He said the pellet came from a Mar-

Hanh enjoys educational experience

Story: Darlene Stinson

Hanh Marie Prince is bringing a touch of Vietnamese to Miller Elementary School.

The adoptive Vietnamese daughter of Alan and Judy Prince, Hanh is a newcomer to Miller Elementary School and formal education in general. Hahn, who arrived in the United States last spring, has had no formal education as far as her parents know.

Testing, administered by Plymouth Community School District personnel, has placed the tiny eight-year-old in Jon Childs' combined first and second grade classroom at Miller where she began learning first grade subjects two weeks ago.

Although the English language is still an obstacle to Hanh, the eight-year-old is progressing fine, report her parents, teachers and administrators.

In the photo above, Hanh practices counting in English under the direction of teacher specialist Joyce Reefer. At right, the eight-year-old ponders which color crayon to use on a printing assignment, while classmates Kristine Kolka (left) and Nicole Mucia busy themselves with drawing.

"She has some difficulty with the language," said Childs. "Yet, being older than the other kids, she has better fine muscle control. Her printing now is at the second grade level.

"She will require more time in some things. But, in this type of set up, we try to meet the needs of each student."

Moceri compromise to go before board

Tuesday's public hearing on the proposed compromise between developer Dominic Moceri and Canton Township officials was a far cry from Moceri-related hearings in the past.

Only 10 persons, other than township officials and members of the press, dotted the nearly empty Plymouth Canton High auditorium. All but two residents remained silent throughout the half-hour hearing.

After hearing no opposition to the proposal at Tuesday's hearing and two semi-private sessions with homeowner group officials and Windsor Park residents, township board members unanimously agreed to empower Canton's administration to proceed with the consent judgment negotiations.

FINAL WORDING of the agreement, subject to final approval of the township board, is earmarked for a consent judgment in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Under terms of the judgment, the agreement will follow the land forever, unless amended by the township board and the court.

"It's perhaps the greatest compliment to this board that the turnout at this hearing tonight is 10 people out of 27,000," said Supervisor Robert Greenstein. "It certainly shows confidence in this plan, when several months ago we had a near riot at a planning commission meeting over the Moceri project."

Main points of the proposed agreement between the township and Moceri include:

- Sale of the land to developer Richard Lewiston of Practical Home Builders, who will develop the site.
- Elimination of a proposed regional shopping center at the corner of Sheldon and Joy and less land zoned for commercial use. No multiple family dwellings, high-rise buildings or duplexes as originally proposed.
- Donation of about 25 acres of wooded land abutting the Windsor Park Subdivision to the township for a park site. Donation of four to six acres for the Canton Center-Sheldon cutoff.
- Larger lots and less density on the portion of the land earmarked for single-family use.

TO ELIMINATE concerns of the Plymouth Community School District on the proposed settlement, township officials have negotiated further agreements with Lewiston, Greenstein said. Points benefitting the school district and residents include:

- Provision of sidewalks down Joy and Sheldon at the sides of the Moceri site.
- Widening of one residential street within the Moceri project to allow access for buses from Morton Taylor to the Windsor Park school site.
- The construction of fences between the woods of the Windsor Park school site and the construction projects.

Lewiston, Greenstein said, has also agreed to construct Morton Taylor to the side of the right-of-way's center line to allow possible construction of a boulevard in future years. Lewiston has agreed to pave a drain within the subdivision to eliminate erosion and mosquito problems.

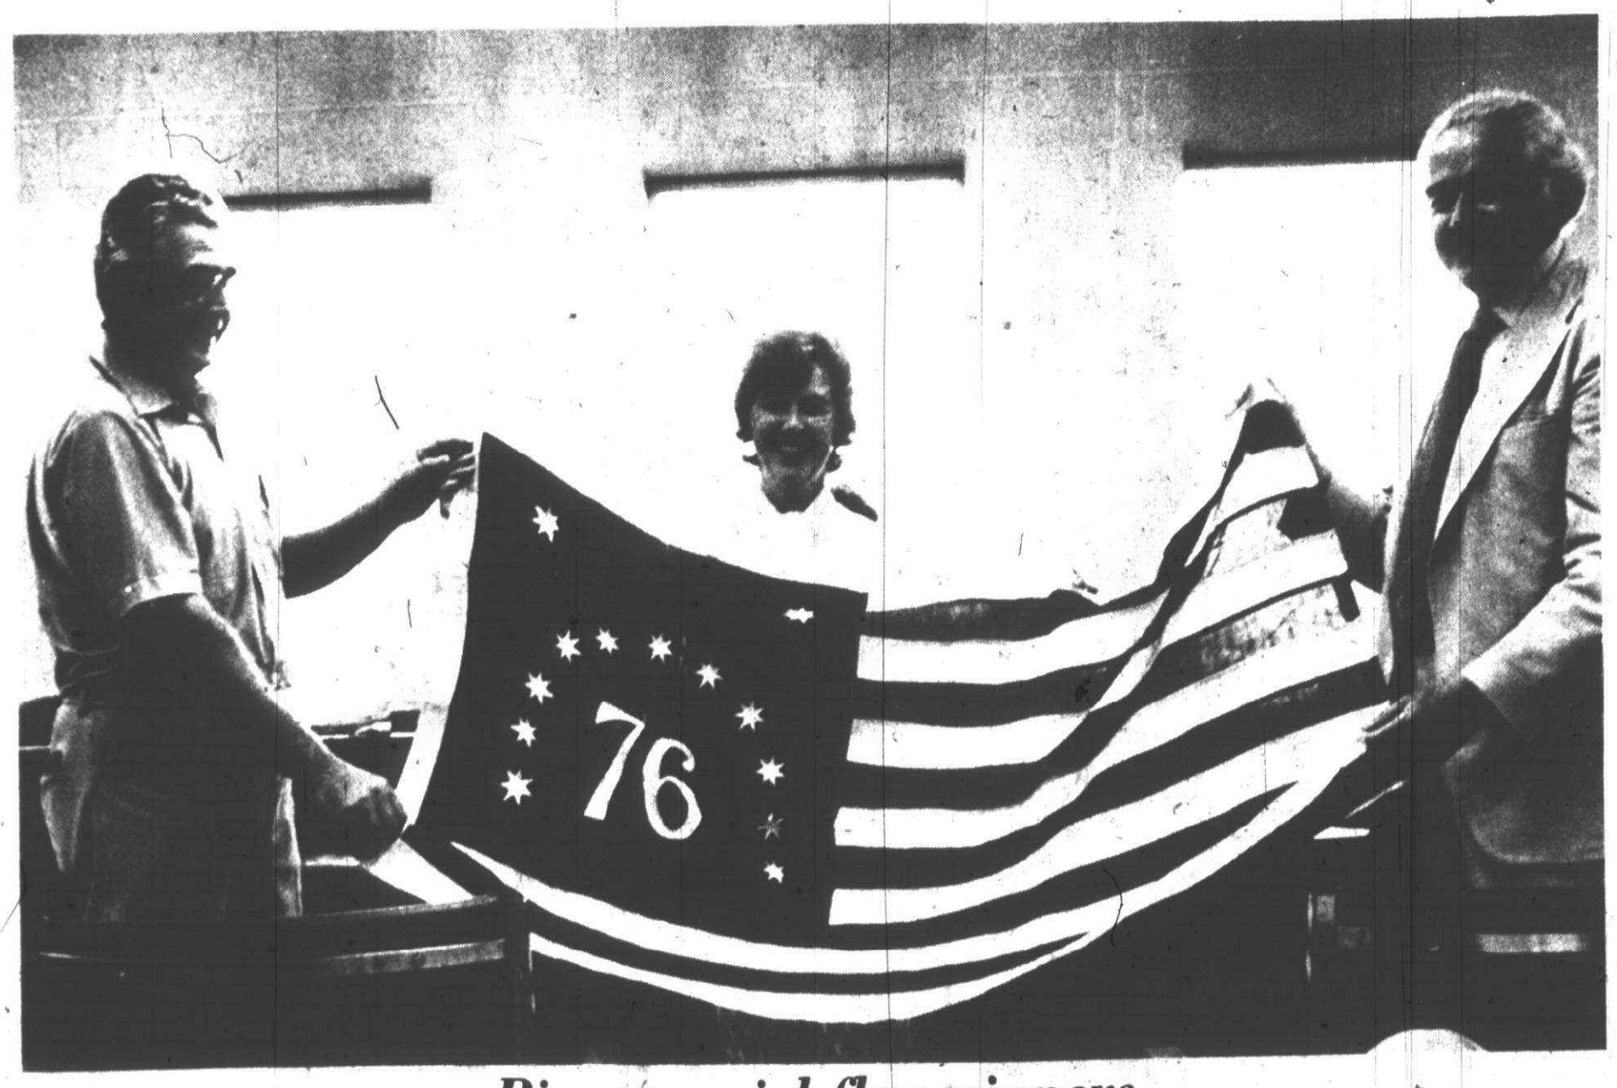
THE PROPOSED out-of-court agreement is an alternative to a long court battle with Moceri, who filed suit last summer over the township board's refusal to rezone 65 acres from single family residential to planned shopping. Moceri planned construction of a regional shopping center on the site.

Township resident Betty Hamann spoke on behalf of the Windsor Park Civic Association at Tuesday's public hearing.

"We realize this plan is a compromise," she said, "but we feel this plan is a definite improvement over the original Moceri proposal.

"It's not very often I'm in a position to thank Greenstein, but I'd like to do it now. We feel the board, particularly Greenstein, should be complimented for their efforts on this."

A resident of Plymouth Township, who lives on Main Street, was the only other person at Tuesday's hearing who spoke about the plan. That resident only questioned alignment of the proposed Morton Taylor right-of-way with Main Street in Plymouth Township.



Bicentennial flag winners

Country store planned for FF

A country store and the kind of old-fashioned sugar cookies grandma used to make are among the attractions at the 1975 Plymouth Fall Festival Sept. 4-7.

Throughout the four-day celebration, visitors at the Main Street General Store can select from a variety of old-style goods.

Merchants in turn-of-the-century garb will be on hand to offer handcrafted sun bonnets, placemats and ceramic ware, pickles, homegrown apples, blueberries and many other items. The store will be run by the Plymouth Cooperative Nursery and the Salvation Army.

After shopping at the country store, festival goers can stop by the Plymouth Grange for a taste of home cooking including homemade pies, doughnuts hot off the press and cookies made from secret Grange recipes.

Inside the Grange hall, cooks will serve full-size meals just like those fed to hungry farm hands in from the fields. The dinners will be served Friday and Saturday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 5-8 p.m., and on Sunday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

'100-year rain'

LAST WEEK THE CITY of Plymouth was notified that it is eligible for flood insurance from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). When Tonquish Creek overflowed its banks and flooded Main Street, HUD was far in the future 1966 to be exact. Centennial Park problems, scheduling debated

Plymouth Centennial Education Park after five years was the subject of a workshop session Monday night when the Plymouth Board of Education and Supt. John M. Hoben met with CEP principals and area coordinators.

"Is all rosy at the park?" was the question raised by Board Member Joe Gray.

Trustee Tom Yack said he had picked up "vibrations from the community while on the campaign trail." He had read the North Central accreditation report and was concerned about the use of unscheduled time, the attendance policy and lack of preparation in the lower grades for modular scheduling.

"I can't get a handle on what's going on over there," was Marcia Borowski's complaint, and Trustee Gary Mirto said: "The Park and the board got off on the wrong foot." But he added: "There are more strengths than weaknesses."

PLYMOUTH SALEM PRINCIPAL Bill Brown said the revised attendance schedule was a marked improvement last year. There had been fewer parental complaints because the staff had been able to notify parents in time to do something about the problem.

Yack said that, although the policy states that after the fourth time a student misses a class a staff member initiates action, the North Central report says the staff doesn't always follow through.

Coordinator Fred Meier answered: "One of the biggest gripes of staff members was the time wasted on telephone calls. Usually no one is home as 40 to 50 per cent of the mothers work." The mail-out notices had been more effective.

Mrs. Borowski wanted to know, "Why are the kids cutting classes?"

According to Ken Jacobs, coordinator for physical education, art and special education, "Lots of kids just don't want to be there. He conforms by going to school, but he doesn't go to class."

Jacobs said the policy states a student may be withdrawn from class after eight absences. "But he needs five credits to be a full-time student. When do we drop them?"

GRAY SUGGESTED that perhaps the "may" should be changed to "shall." "I think it is too lenient," said Mirto. "Nobody wants to be the bad guy. I'm willing to take the responsibility. Let the board be the bad guy."

Dr. Jerry Morris, foreign language and social science coordinator, said, "We are still trying, after eight absences, to remove the problem, not the child."

Plymouth Canton Principal Kent Buikema interjected that they were talking about just two or three per cent of the student population which drops below the five credits.

Hoben reminded the board that the North Central study had been made a year ago, after a one-month teacher strike. "By the end of the school year some criticism in the report was no longer valid."

USE OF THE coordinators' time was questioned.

The coordinators estimated they spend about one-third of their time in curriculum study. Each is responsible for the attendance and minor discipline problems of about 550 students.

Coordinators meet with teachers on a regular basis and work closely with the counselors assigned to their students.

Coordinators usually start with a group of freshmen and follow through the four years of high school.

The advisor-advisee program which will be initiated this fall at the Park is expected to aid the coordinators and ease the "big school, lost in the shuffle" feeling for freshmen.

Brown referred to it as a "caring for. kids" program. Freshmen and sophomores at Canton and freshman at Salem will be divided into groups of about 20. They will spend 40 minutes each cycle (six days) with a teacher who has volunteered for this closer contact with the students.

The advisor will not replace the coordinator or counselor but will be someone with whom to discuss problems in a small group or a one-to-one basis.

TRADITIONAL vs. modular scheduling was discussed with the announcement that 63 per cent of the ninth graders opt for the traditional.

Buikema said that although all students go into the modular scheduling at the 10th grade level, English and math follow the traditional format.

Gray said: "I like modular scheduling. My kids are on modular scheduling. But after four years, how can we judge? How does it affect them when they go to college?"

"We're doing dynamic things out there," said Morris.

"But how can you evaluate it?" said Dick Bearup, coordinator for business.

Board Chairman Marda Benson, in summing up the advantages and disadvantages, said, "We need informed parents and better communication between the board and the park."

Florence Beier, newly appointed administrative assistant for community affairs, said these were problems that she would have a hand in solving.

MIXED UP REPORT cards were a final criticism from Gray, whose children had received grades on courses they didn't take and none on some classes they did take.

Hoben said that the computerized report cards had been a great headache as they shifted from one data bank to another.

The administration now has settled on a system which it believes will solve that problem.

Freshmen will receive adjustment assistance

The first day of school at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) can be a frightening experience for the uninitiated ninth grader who passes through a maze of unfamiliar corridors past waves of unfamiliar faces.

But this year's incoming class of 1,000 freshmen may view the halls of Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools with a twinge of familiarity with the kickoff of the CEP's freshman orientation and advisor program.

THE PROGRAM, scheduled to begin on the first day of classes, will replace the CEP's former orientation program, conducted on a voluntary basis at the time students picked up their schedules.

The new program, according to the CEP staff members scheduled to conduct it, will better equip freshmen with knowledge of the buildings as well as the CEP's complicated modular scheduling.

The program, hopefully, will provide a personal touch to what could be a frightening experience.

"They really need some help," anthropology teacher Liz Carlson said of the CEP's incoming freshmen. "They're so confused when they come here. I think it's the size of the park and the fact that there are separate schools. We want to get away from the idea that they're one in 4,000."

The program will include 1,000 incoming freshmen at Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools, 80 faculty members who will act as advisors as well as 400 sophomores at Plymouth Canton High.

FRESHMEN WILL walk into empty school buildings the morning of Sept. 4 for the start of the orientation program.

Small groups of freshmen and their advisors will tour the school buildings, discuss modular scheduling and solve scheduling conflicts before upper classmen return to their classrooms at 11 a.m.

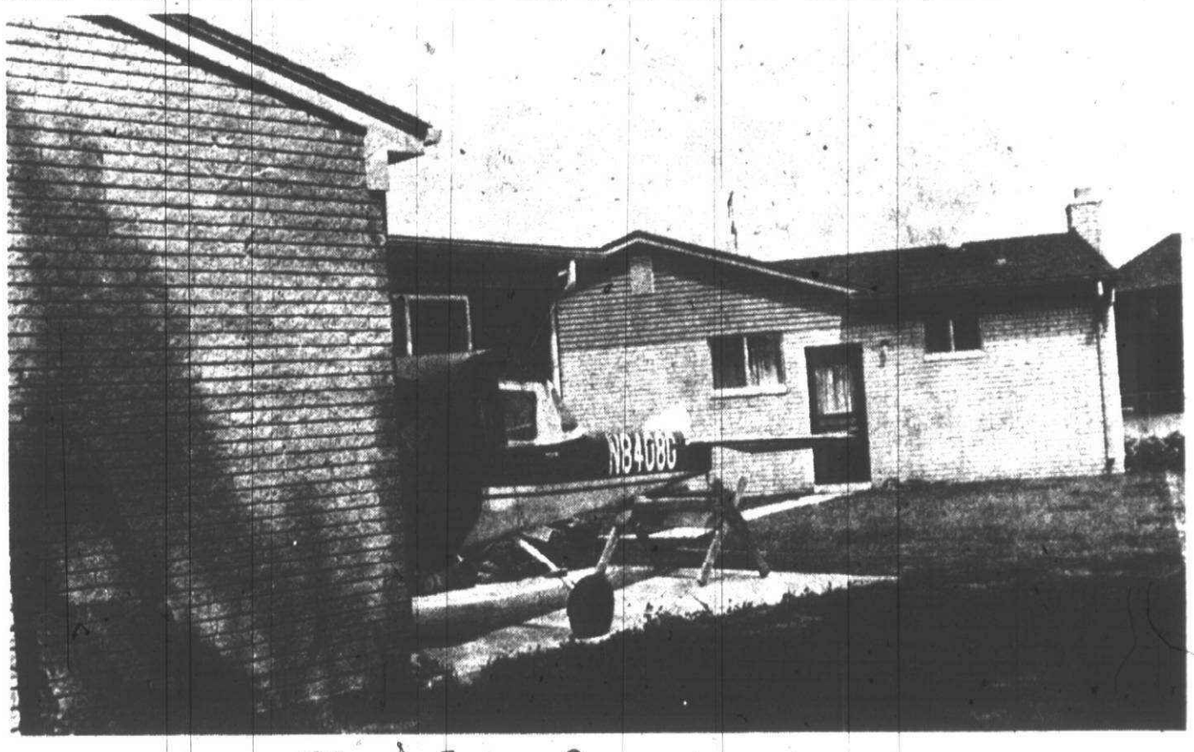
The "advisor periods" are molded into students' schedules for the remainder of the school year to supplement the roles of counselors and add a personal touch to the sprawling two-school park.

ADVISOR GROUPS will discuss projects that could fill students' unscheduled time and participate in a myriad of activities.

"We want to get these ninth graders off on a good step," explained Kris Darby, an art teacher at Salem. "We want to make the point that we're here to help them. We really think it will give some school spirit to the students."

Sophomores at Canton High will meet with advisors on a regular basis to discuss problems they had as freshmen and others they're currently encountering.

"It's just a pilot program, and we could use it through 12th grade," said Mrs. Carlson. "You look at the older students and the apathy about the school and think, 'I wish we could change it.'"



Too big for a garage

IT'S NOT OFTEN that an airplane is parked in a residential backyard. This airplane, parked in a Canton Township subdivision, will soon move to more suitable land, according to township ordinance officer Bruce Phillips, because of neighborhood complaints and a township ordinance violation. MEMBERS OF THE Plymouth Symphony Society are hoping to reap a record sum from this year's membership drive, an annual campaign to raise funds for the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra. Poring over budget figures and membership drive plans are Plymouth Symphony Society members (from left) Gilbert Camp, Yvon Litalien and James McGettigan, vice president.

MAKING PLANS for this year's membership drive are Plymouth Symphony Society members (from left) Dr. Jane K. Moehle, president; Annette Heindryckx, family membership chairperson; Jean Braun, chairperson of the excursions in music school program and orchestra violist; and M. Brian Zelek, treasurer.

Symphony launches membership campaign

By DARLENE STINSON

Music portraying a three-faceted celebration will whisper and blare from the woodwinds, brass, strings and percussion of Plymouth Symphony Orchestra this season and mark the Symphony Society's annual drive for membership and funds.

Members of the Plymouth Symphony Society's Board of Directors have set a record $24,500 budget to provide an anniversary and bicentennial flavor to the orchestra's 1975-76 season—the 30th for the orchestra and the 25th under the direction of conductor Wayne Dunlap.

ACCORDING TO Dr. Ralph Atchley, secretary of the Plymouth Symphony Society, the group hopes to reap a record $7,000—$1,200 more than last year—from this season's family membership drive.

The society already has mailed its membership brochures to former members and other persons on its mailing list, Atchley said. Other persons wishing to obtain membership status should contact Annette Heindryckx, the society's family membership chairperson, at 46000 Ann Arbor Trail or P.O. Box 467, Plymouth.

The orchestra's 1975-76 season will feature music with a bicentennial flair and works by American composers.

A special bicentennial concert, scheduled for March 7, will tentatively feature a specially commissioned folk ballet centered around the Shakers, an early American religious group who believed in the arrival of Christ's second coming and complete segregation of the sexes.

Robert Jones, a music instructor at Schoolcraft College, will write music for the ballet, if the Symphony Society receives a $4,800 grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts. Ralph Kelly, an English instructor at Schoolcraft College, will write the story for the ballet, based on the true story of a young couple in a Kentucky Shaker community.

PERSONS MAY view the orchestra's bicentennial and five other concerts at reduced rates through one of five family membership plans.

For $100 or more, persons may obtain patron status and four tickets to each of the orchestra's six concerts. Persons may obtain sustaining status and three season tickets for $50; supporting status and two season tickets for $25; and active status and one season ticket for $16. Senior citizens may obtain one ticket to all the orchestra's concerts for $5.

Single concert tickets, purchased at the door, are priced at $3.50 for adults and $1.75 for senior citizens. Students in grades kindergarten through grade 12 will be admitted free at all but the Dec. 7 and March 7 concerts, when $1.75 will be charged. Free nursery service is provided for children three through five.

The orchestra's Nov. 9 concert is dedicated to the memory of the late Plymouth Symphony flutist Nelson Hauenstein. Soloist Cleon Chapen will perform Griffes' "Poeme for Flute and Orchestra." Other works on the Nov. 9 program include Faure's suite from "Peleas and Melisande"; Teleman's "Suite in A Minor for Flute and Strings" and Brahms' "Symphony No. 1 in C. Minor, Op. 68."

Other concerts are scheduled for Oct. 12, Dec. 7, Jan. 25 and April 25.

The Oct. 12 concert will feature such works as Robert Ward's "Jubilation Overture"; Randall Thompson's "Symphony No. 2 in E Minor"; "Les Nuits d'Ete" by Berlioz and "Daphnis and Chloe, Suite No. 2" by Ravel.

The Opera Association of Western Michigan will perform Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors" with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra at its Dec. 7 concert. The orchestra will perform Christmas music by Mozart, Leroy Anderson, Robert Shaw and Robert Russell Bennett.

THE ORCHESTRA'S Jan. 25 concert is slated as the family concert. Works by Bales, Copland and Effinger will portray such American heroes as George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Billy the Kid and the American cowboy. Violinist Charles Roth and violist Scott Woolweaver, members of the orchestra, will perform a movement from Mozart's "Sinfonie Concertante."

The concert will feature other works, including Mozart's "Serenade No. 8 for Four Orchestras" and Tschaikowsky's elegie from "Serenade for Strings."

The April 25 concert will feature soloist William Doppman, who will perform MacDowell's "Concerto No. 2 in D Minor for Piano and Orchestra." Ron Nelson's "Savannah River Holiday," Haydn's "Symphony No. 103 in E flat Major," and Resphigi's "Pines of Rome" will be featured.

The board of directors of the Plymouth Symphony Society for the 1975-76 season include Dr. Jane Moehle, president; James McGettigan, vice president; M. Brian Zelek, treasurer; Ralph Atchley, secretary and Wayne Dunlap, musical director.

Dystrophy carnival a success

The dystrophy carnival last Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Falkiewicz, 43035 Hanford, netted $165.09 in profits.

Ringmaster John Falkiewicz reports the residents of Nottingham Woods subdivision made the affair a success. His mother's family from Dearborn Heights also helped, making signs and articles for the flea market. They were clowns at the carnival.

The 16 hand-painted signs, which had been placed to direct visitors to the carnival, disappeared. Mrs. Falkiewicz said the crowd would have been much larger if the signs had been left in place.

Grab bags were the best sellers but the treasure chest, fish pond, wishing well and games were good money-makers too, according to John. Hot dogs and soft drinks were served as refreshments.

The proceeds will be added to the fund to help fight dystrophy and related diseases.

Fife, Drum Corps gets $10,000 grant

The Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps has received a $10,000 grant to help finance statewide performances during the 1976 bicenntennial observance.

The grant was recommended for approval Tuesday by the reviewing committee of the Michigan Bicenntennial Commission.

State Sen. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth), who made a presentation to the committee on behalf of the corps, says the recommendation will now be forwarded to the executive committee and go to the full commission Sept. 4.

Pursell says, however, that final approval is routine as the commission is expected to act on the recommendations of the review committee.

A full itinerary for 1976 has been arranged by the Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps with at least 40 performances throughout Michigan, including performances at Fort Wayne in Detroit for the Farmington Founders Festival and for a special bicenntennial celebration being planned by Observer and Eccentric Newspapers.

Much of the work on the grant application was performed by Don Tripp, who has worked for the group for years.

The Fife and Drum Corps is the first local group to receive a grant from the state. Other groups have applied for state and federal grants for bicenntennial projects.

Provow was to take the stand late Wednesday afternoon as the first witness for his own defense.

Judge Roumell called a Thursday and Friday recess in the trial which will resume Monday morning.

Plymouth ice coach gives up career to teach

By SUE ROSIEK

Valeri Chase of Livonia recently gave up the glitter and galmour of skating with a professional ice show to teach in Westland, and she's enjoying every minute of it.

"Teaching is a challenge. It's very rewarding to watch your students progress and know that you're helping someone else," says Miss Chase, a 1973 graduate of Stevenson High School.

Formerly a member of the Shipstads & Johnson's Ice Follies chorus, Miss Chase is presently coaching youngsters from Westland, Livonia and Plymouth in the Westland Ice Arena, Cherry Hill and Newburgh, Westland.

MISS CHASE, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chase joined the follies in fall 1973 after a spur-of-the-moment audition at Detroit's Olympia Stadium. She spent two years traveling with the show and toured more than 25 cities.

The was offered a contract for the 1975-76 season with Holiday on Ice, one of three follies' shows, but declined.

"Two years is enough. It was a tremendous opportunity but I want to get into other things," says Miss Chase.

The skating teacher has been busy modeling. She will enter Schoolcraft College in the fall and plans to study marketing.

Miss Chase began "skating seriously" at eight. "Actually I started at six on my brother's old hockey skates. Two years later I graduated to figure skates."

She completed five of eight figure skating exams, and studied at the Detroit Skating Club under Don Stewart and former Olympic champion Gary Visconti.

She enjoys her duties in Westland and feels it is important for young skaters coming up in the ranks to have an experienced teacher.

She teaches skaters nine to 15 in private and group lessons. In the fall she plans to teach at Ford Field Ice Arena in Livonia in addition to Westland.

MISS CHASE will concentrate on competitive rather than recreational skating because she sees a need for advanced instruction.

"There's really been a skating boom in this area in the last three years and there just aren't enough advanced instructors to accommodate the young skaters." explains Miss Chase.

After teaching only a few weeks, Miss Chase finds standards, among even beginner skaters, have improved.

"I have never seen so many young children skating so well. The Detroit area continues to produce more fine skaters than many other parts of the country."

She feels her follies' training will benefit her class.

"I LEARNED a lot about stage lighting and choreography from ice show instructors and I hope to pass it along to my students," says Miss Chase.

She admits that many of her students are in awe of her skating accomplishments.

"These youngsters are fantastic. When I left to join the follies, they presented me with roses. When I returned many brought in their programs from the show and asked for my autograph."

Miss Chase currently teaches intermediate and advanced classes. The class material ranges from basic jumps, spins, edges and strokes to advanced jumps and sessions on style.

"I don't like to see sloppy skaters," says Miss Chase. She encourages skaters to think for themselves and stresses attitude.

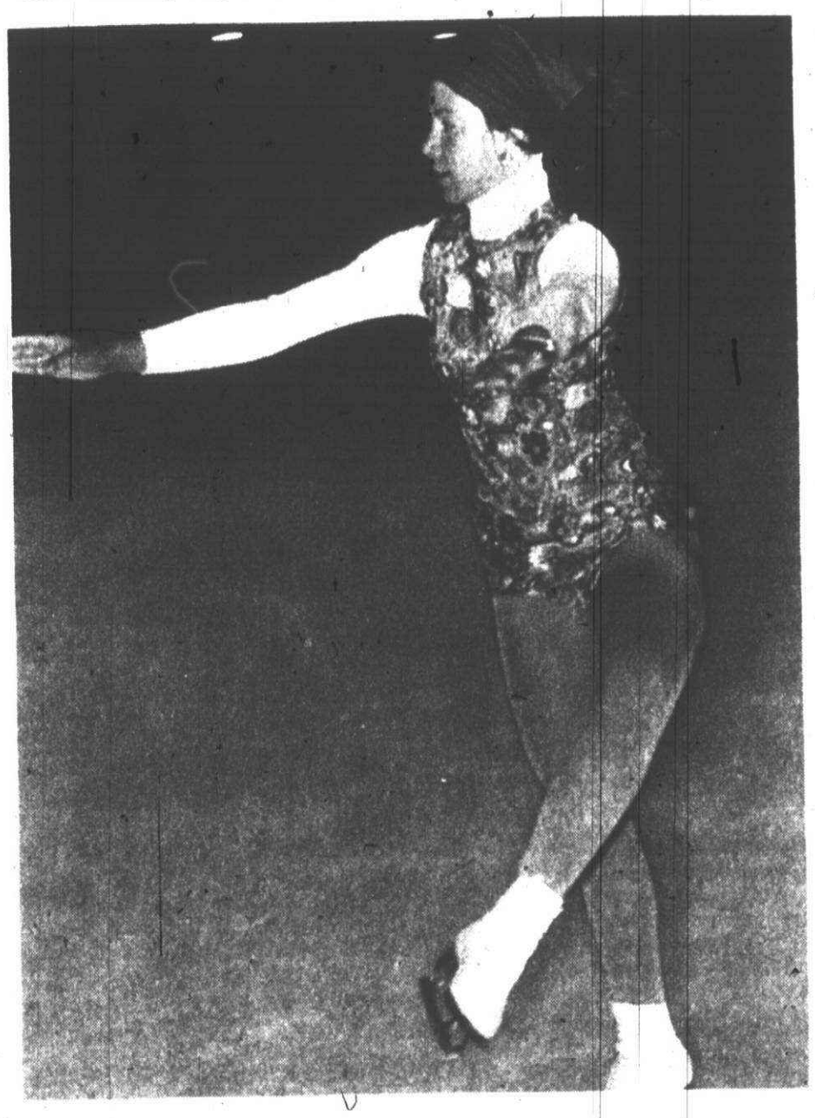
"Attitude is important. I would rather see a young skater who has decided to skate, rather than one whose parents have forced her into it."

MISS CHASES' class includes Lori Carlton, 10, of Livonia and Paige Neumann, 8, of Westland. Both are beginners and practicing to take their preliminary exams.

Brooke Fournier, 10, of Livonia, a former student of Miss Chase, is presently studying with Anne Seror of the Detroit Skating Club. Brooke has completed her preliminary first and second figures, and earned prebronze and presliver status in dance.

Kim Murray, 12, of Plymouth is a private student and has completed her preliminary exam. "I like skating and I like Valeri, she's a good teacher and easy to understand."

This fall, Miss Chase plans to put her nephew, Derek, 2, on skates. "It will take a lot of patience, but it'll be fun," she smiles.



ROBERT E. TELLIER of Canton Township has been appointed assistant manager of communications for Automobile Club of Michigan's emergency road service department. A native of New York City, Tellier was first employed by the Auto Club in 1960 as a mail clerk.

Hulce on Broadway

Understudy from Plymouth gets leading role

(The following story is a reprint from the New Jersey Herald-News. Writer Tom Sullivan wrote: "I had the pleasure this week of preparing the attached story about a young man from your area. If you wish to reprint it you are welcome to do so.")

By TOM SULLIVAN
Herald-News Staff Writer

NEW YORK—It is rare on Broadway for understudies to take over permanently the top roles in lead productions but Thomas Hulce, 21, has done it in the psychological thriller "Equus" and audiences give him an ovation eight nights a week.

He understudied Peter Firth when the show moved into Plymouth Theater from London's West End last October, went on eight times when Firth was indisposed, and assumed the role after Firth and Anthony Hopkins returned to London, June 1.

There were some young actors with moderate name value who thought they ought to get a crack at the role, but in "Equus" the play is the thing and names on marquees don't mean a thing if the goods aren't delivered believably. So unknown Tom Hulce from Plymouth Mich. is now a Broadway star.

The role of a sorely troubled stable boy who gouges out the eyes of his equine charges, then engages in a remarkable mental duel with his psychiatrist (now played by Anthony Perkins) is a tour de force and Hulce does it great justice.

TOM HULCE

IT MIGHT SEEM unlikely because of the distance from sleepy Plymouth, Mich., to Plymouth Theater on 45th Street, but in the five years it took him to make the trip, the youth devoted himself single-mindedly to learning theater craft.

He was the youngest of four children in a family with no theatrical antecedents. His father is a Ford Motor Co. executive and they lived on a gentleman's farm with a small assortment f livestock about 45 miles from Detroit.

Tom never did well in high school, being convinced by then that his future was in acting. He would hitchhike to Ann Arbor and badger people at the various theatrical enterprises for some kind of work—anything.

"I moved scenery, handled lights, and sometimes got a small role," he explained over lunch at Gallagher's. "I even landed the lead role in 'Oliver'—making me one of the better-fed Olivers."

But he was convinced that continuing his high school with all the frustrations that involved was a waste, and he talked his parents into letting him spend his 11th grade year at Interlochen, a distinguished music and drama school financed by millionaire W. Clement Stone.

FROM THERE he went to North Carolina School of the Arts in Winston-Salem for his last year of high school and two college-level years, working with instructors of the highest professional standards.

In that period he put in a summer in London, working in a formal program arranged through NCSA and later worked a summer at the Asolo Theater in Sarasota.

"I played lots of soldiers in 'War and Peace' and a newsboy in 'Time o. Your Life' and I got to write a studio version of 'The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man in the Moon Marigolds,' and I fetched and carried," he said.

How do you like directing?

"Fantastic. I was just a kid and some of the participants were established performers, but it went very well."

AFTER THAT came a period in stock at Booth Bay, Maine, with roles in "Three Sisters," "The Philanthropist," "School for Wives" and "The Play's the Thing."

And then Hulce thought he might be ready for an assault on Broadway.

He had heard about a role suitable for his age and appearance in a Chelsea Theater production of "Total Eclipse" but they turned him down, so he wound up taking a job as a costume shopper for Joseph Papp's New York Shakespeare Festival.

"I had rent to pay and food to buy and a job is a job, but in any case, I don't think you can ever know too much about theater craft," he said.

He tried out for the understudy part in "Equus," which was to go into rehearsal in Setember for an October opening.

"I did four auditions and they were interested, but I never heard anything so I proceeded as if I didn't have it."

THAT INCLUDED accepting a role in David Rabe's revision of "The Orphan," which was to open in an off-Broadway equivalent of Philadelphia. While there, he got the call that he would be Firth's understudy and he returned to New York.

He took over for Firth twice during previews and six times during the run, with audience reaction highly favorable. Along the way he had signed with an agent, Bret Adams, and offers for television work and other roles started coming in.

"I decided to stay with 'Equus' though and I didn't dream I would wind up with the lead," Hulce added.

It turned out to be a wise choice and there have been some television roles in between.

Hulce admits to being in a trance the first time he had to go on in "Equus" and each night starts out with butterflies until he steps on stage.

"ONCE YOU GET into the play, it takes over. I love it," was his summation.

Because he has a nude scene, and generally has to have a frail, vulnerable look, anyway, the enjoyment of good food is one by-product of success that he must forego, watching very carefully what he eats.

Once in a while someone will recognize him in a public place and stop him to talk about the show, which invariably sticks with those who see it.

"I don't mind when that happens," he said. "Being in a play this good and pleasing audiences is a tremendous satisfaction."

Bill Hall manager of Lent's

Wendell Lent has announced the appointment of Bill Hall as general manager of Lent's Custom Clothing in the Mayflower Hotel.

"Hall will be in charge of purchasing and will manage the business," said Lent. "He has the personality and knowledge of the latest fashions to do a fine job. "He will probably make a lot of changes around here. Besides continuing with our present clientele, he will serve the younger people with new, high-style fashions."

Lent said he plans to spend less time in the store but will be available for fittings for his old customers.

Hall, who is in his early 30s, was manager of Famous Men's Wear on Ann Arbor Trail for 15 years. Lent has been in the men's clothing business on Main Street since 1943.

Plymouth Hilton Inn will open in October

DEANE BAKER

The new five-story, 195-room Plymouth Hilton Inn is expected to open in early October.

That announcement was made this week by Deane Baker, owner and developer of the Plymouth Hilton at 14707 Northville Road just south of Five Mile in Plymouth Township.

Baker's latest estimate is the total worth of the Plymouth Hilton will be at least $5.5 million and could reach $6 million.

BESIDES THE guest rooms, the Plymouth Hilton will have a new restaurant — the Jolly Miller — seating 160.

Adjacent to the restaurant will be a supper club seating 140 with nightly entertainment, and nearby will be the Park Coffee Shop seating 120.

Other facilities incude a 12,000-square-foot ballroom, banquet rooms to handle up to 1,000 persons, and 17 function rooms for groups of 10 to 1,100 persons for meetings, conferences, wedding receptions and other group activities.

The coffee shop is located adjacent to the Atrium — a three-story area with a 50-by-20-foot swimming pool. The entire area measures 80 by 110 feet with a park-like interior that features tall growing trees, flowers, plants and park benches.

CONSTRUCTION of the Hilton started in November 1974 after purchase from the Investors Diversified Mortgage Corp. (IDS) of Minneapolis.

"We are going to try and make the Plymouth Hilton Inn one of the most complete hotel, convention, food, entertainment and recreational facilities available in the area," said Baker.

Baker, 50, is also president of The Deane Baker Co. with headquarters in Dearborn. He purchased the Inn, however, in his own name, without involvement by his company.

Baker was elected to the University of Michigan Board of Regents by polling more than 1½ million Michigan voters in 1972.

Previously he was appointed by Gov. Milliken to serve on the Grand Valley State College Board of Control.

BAKER GAINED national recognition for his work in industrial park development in Michigan and for converting the Stockyards in Chicago into an industrial park.

He has completed two low-income housing developments — Nagel Plaza and the Martin Luther King Homes — which provide 507 homes for families in Detroit.

Before starting his own business, Baker, over the past 20 years, was vice-president of two major contracting firms and president of a Detroit-based international contracting firm.

Baker earned a master's degree in business administration from the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration and has a bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Wisconsin.

Smith's tax bill advances

LANSING—A bill to require the state to pay money to local governmental units in lieu of taxes on state land has advanced in the House of Representatives.

Representative Roy Smith (R-Ann Arbor), whose 52nd District includes part of Plymouth, introduced HB 4105 last January. The bill was then referred to the House Taxation Committee.

The bill was recently moved out of the taxation committee and moved to the House Appropriations Committee. Smith expects action on the bill on the floor this fall.

The bill provides that the state will pay an amount equal to 25 per cent of the money that would be due in taxes if the land weren't owned by the state. Recreational lands and facilities would be exempt from this requirement.

The bill also provides that the county treasurer shall apportion this payment to the various cities and townships within the county in proportion to the funds received for the state property located within a city or township.

Real seance can be dangerous

The dictionary defines a seance as "a group of people attempting to make contact with the souls of the dead."

However, the most popular type of home seance seldom, if ever, involves any real spirits. Most often, a group of people sit around a table with their hands on top so that their little fingers touch, and an unbroken chain is formed.

The lights are usually dimmed to make it easier for the participants to concentrate on what they are doing.

If all the members of the group are serious about this, it is quite possible for them to work up energy that fairly crackles and is so electric that it can be felt by others in the room outside of the circle.

OFTEN THE tables rock, rap, tip and actually seem to jump about the room of their own accord. I have seen sessions of this type where the people involved had to stand up, leave their chairs behind, and follow the table to avoid breaking the circle.

Once movement starts, lights can be turned up, people can laugh and talk, and nothing short of breaking the circle seems to stop the action.

This action, however, is not caused by spirits, but by human energies. Although they are not consciously moving the table, the members of the circle are providing that energy and are responsible for the movement.

This is very dramatic and makes an exciting and relatively harmless experiment. However, although it is a psychic experience, it is not a real seance, since no attempt is made to communicate with any ghosts or spirits.

FOR A REAL seance, the room is set up in much the same way, although some groups dispense with a table and simply seat themselves in a circle holding hands.

Again, the lights are dimmed, and this time, instead of concentrating on the table, movement or energies, the participants sit quietly and perhaps chant or sing softly in unison.

This often seems to have a hypnotic effect on them, and they go into a trance-like state in which they sometimes believe they are receiving spiritual messages. Whether or not they are communicating with the dead is not the important factor here, for it can be neither proven nor disproven. What is important is that they believe they are, and this can have a traumatic effect upon an individual.

Please understand that by describing this phenomena, I am not necessarily suggesting that you try it. Let me repeat some important things I have said here, before.

FIRST, I DO not believe that you can just decide to call up a ghost and do so. I think any well-adjusted spirit probably has something else to do besides entertaining at your party. However, if there is one who might have reason to wish to contact you, perchance by making the conditions more favorable, it will be able to do so. Who knows?

Second, no one, who is not in complete control of his senses, should play with this or any other psychic phenomena. If you are drinking, taking any kind of drug or tonic, even if it is prescribed by a doctor, or if you are emotionally unstable at this time, or even over-excitable, I suggest that you sit this one out. It is not for you.

I personally would not recommend such activity for any group unless a well-trained psychologist and a registered nurse are in attendance. Contrary to what others may say, it can be dangerous.

'Nothing else like it' at SC

By MARTHA MAHAN

Is there a subject you'd like to know more about but never took time to explore?

Or couldn't find listed in a college class catalogue?

Or wasn't satisfying as taught under the traditional time formula of 50 minute classes so many days a week?

Well, hike over to Schoolcraft College where a unique program of independent study is offered this fall for the first time.

"There is nothing else like it," said Gordon Wilson who, with his English instructor colleague Sue Kaplan, devised and will direct the course.

"We investigated Wayne State's Monteith College, Michigan State's Justin Morrill and a number of west coast universities which have independent study programs," Wilson said.

"We a dopted some of their ideas, altered and improved others and added some new concepts of our own."

The program, catalogued as Independent Human Studies, offers 14 courses which actually are suggestions or starting points from which the student can move off into his particular interest.

A course in human conflict might branch off to wars between nations, conflict within society, ways the individual handles conflict or economic conflict, or offshoots of any of these, just as an example.

"Even literary narrative is the exploration of some kind of conflict," Ms. Kaplan said.

There are no prerequisites forthe course but a breif written application and an interview are necessary for admission.

"We're looking for a diversity of ages and interests," Wilson said.

The age range of those who have applied so far is 18 to 50, he said.

"We want people committed to working independently but not the typical academic," Wilson added. "We may accept the very scholarly but we will take the vocational, too. We don't want anyone to think of this as an elitist kind of program."

Among interests brought out by early enrollees, Wilson mentioned a young woman attracted to the study of a one-industry town in Northern Michigan dependent on a railroad,and the railroad's impact on the community's way of life.

Another, he said, intends to analyze political campaigns and a woman plans further pursuit of the arts.

Maximum enrollment will be 35 students, 20 during daytime hours and 15 in the evenings.

Registration will be Aug. 26 and 27.

Seminars, small group discussions, presentation and tutorial sessions will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Tuesday and Thursday will be devoted to research and independent study.

Group and tutorial sessions for evening students will be from 7-10 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday.

At the end of the semester, student and instructor will decide how to divide up the 15 hours credit, such as three hours each for English composition, political science and sociology and two hours each for speech and philosophy.

Most transfer institutions will accept the credits, Wilson said.

Day students will select two, and evening students one from among the 14 courses offered this fall.

The courses are: human conflict, love as a human investment, body awareness, human becoming, human recreation, the cycle of living, human maturity, humanity and technology, humans as political citizens, humans as economic creatures, humanity in cultural transmission, the aesthetic impulse, humans as creatures of the universe, and the future of humanity—humanity of the future.

SEMCOG bill poses the right questions

By TIM RICHARD

A father may dislike the idea, but he knows that one day his daughter will announce that she plans to enter wedlock, or some modified version thereof. The father knows he will have to accept it because his daughter is grown up.

State Rep. William Ryan has made such an announcement to the 4.8 million parents and non-parents of southeastern Michigan. Ryan (D-Detroit) has proposed a bill which would recognize that the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) has grown up and is ready to take on adult (governmental) responsibilities.

Ryan, a former House speaker, is chairman of that body's urban affairs committee. Even if his bill is scary to some folks, Ryan has the courage — and the clout — to get public hearings on it this fall.

Ryan's idea is hardly original. It's based on proposals in the "Regionalist Papers," published by Metropolitan Fund, Inc., the fine research and education foundation which begat SEMCOG, New Detroit, the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) and the Transportation and Land Use Study (TALUS).

OTHER STUDY GROUPS, task forces and just plain futurist citizens have come to similar conclusions. Those conclusions are complex and far-reaching, but here is a fair summary:

• SEMCOG's voluntary approach has attracted only about one-fourth of the eligible local governments in the seven-county region. The Metro Fund-Ryan approach would make membership automatic — just like Wayne and Oakland counties are part of the State of Michigan. No more hiding your head in the sand, like non-participating Macomb County does.

• No one has any real control over such truly regional governmental agencies as the Detroit Metropolitan Water Department and the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan (parks) Authority. The Ryan bill would allow SEMCOG to write a charter, subject to state approval, that would make those agencies accountable to someone or something — probably to SEMCOG itself. The most probable form would be that SEMCOG would appoint their board members, review their budgets, perform their planning and coordinate their personnel policies. (No more arbitrary water price hikes.)

• SEMCOG itself doesn't answer to the citizenry. The Ryan bill would set up a 41-member governing body, much like SEMCOG's present executive committee, with 20 members elected by the voters — an eminently sensible idea. Twenty members would be elected from local governments, much the same way the current executive committee is picked. One member, the chairman, would be elected at large.

A SHAM ARGUMENT against the Metro Fund-Ryan approach is a vague, insecure notion that local home rule will somehow be eroded.

In fact, regional governmental agencies are already here and working. In fact, none of the 400-plus local governments in southeast Michigan is running its own public transportation without regional government help. In fact, only Detroit and a handful of outlying governments have their own water and sewer systems. In fact, a regional agency is already coordinating hospital planning.

Some suburban politicos fear a restructured SEMCOG because direct election of SEMCOG's leadership would open up the "one man, one vote" can of worms. They say suburbs don't fear the present voluntary SEMCOG the way they would fear a more powerful agency.

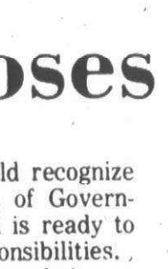
The answers are plain. First, SEMCOG needs the assured kind of funding a mandatory agency would have (though Ryan's bill would give it no direct taxing authority). Second, the baby has grown up, and it's time she was treated like an adult.

Detroit Mayor Coleman Young is less than enthusiastic about a beefed up SEMCOG. Young's position is that he wants to deal with the governor and the federal administration directly; he alone wants to be Mr. Big in southeast Michigan.

The regional hodge-podge of governance in southeast Michigan has "muddled through," as the British would say, long enough. Ryan's bill, while it may not contain all the final answers, certainly poses the right questions. It deserves cool analysis, refined discussion — not the irrational fear of a daddy who won't let his little girl go out on her first date.

Car companies kill sales

Eccentricities



by HANK HOGAN

Over the years, the automobile companies have been the marvel of the merchandising world.

Through advertising they created a demand for their products far in excess of an individual's need to have four wheels to take him someplace.

The industry built up snob appeal so that successful people wouldn't be caught dead driving the low-end of the line type of vehicle, even though it was adequate for one's needs. A successful man was marked by the larger automobile he drove.

They built in planned obsolescence, not by making cars fall apart, but by demand. They made you feel guilty if your car was more than two years old because everybody else in the neighborhood was driving a new car.

IN 1972 THEY sold about 10½ million passenger vehicles, which is unheard of in any other nation in the world.

Unfortunately for Detroit, foreign cars entered the market. These cars were sold on reverse snobbism. They didn't change their models often. Their ads told people how economical they were and how you could drive one for years and years without having to replace it. The Volkswagen Beetle became the symbol of reverse snobbism.

The American automobile industry ignored foreign competition for a while, but the cars made greater and greater inroads until they were taking between 15 and 20 per cent of the market.

I THINK, at that point, the American automobile industry made a mistake and decided to try to meet competition.

People can blame 1974 and 1975 car sales on the energy crisis and the recession. But I think it goes deeper than that.

When the American automobile industry decided to build smaller cars which didn't change radically as often, to save costs, and toned down the announcement hoopla by introducing the cars in the middle of the year, they told the American people they really didn't need to have a new car every year, and therefore they cut the demand they had been so successful in creating.

In the 1975 model year, sales will probably amount to 6½ million passenger cars, a drop of some four million sales.

A GOOD PORTION of this drop in sales is because people have found they can drive their cars three, four and five years and still have a very serviceable product. If this trend continues, then the only way the four-million car loss can be recaptured is by the population increasing.

This does not bode well for the Detroit area's economy, since it is based on successful car sales.

While 1976 will probably be a better car year—because the people who didn't buy in '74 and '75 eventually have to replace their automobiles—we really can't look for many years to come for great automobile sales years, as in the past.

Somehow, the great marvel of the merchandising world, by altering its methods and meeting competition, became its own worst enemy.

'Jaws'—a classic thriller

By CARL STODDARD

In the nearly two years I have written this column, I have never recommended a movie. I will now. Go see "Jaws."

The movie will grab you and shake you and pierce into primitive fears you didn't know you had. It will also keep you out of the ocean for at least three years, and even your swimming pool may seem ominous.

"Jaws" will slam you into your seat. The action is so fast-paced, the cinematography so stunningly real, I doubt that you will once even think of eating popcorn.

The movie is that good.

I sat through it tightly wound, always expecting the unexpected and always startled when it happened.

"Jaws" is a classic thriller, with more power and pace than any movie I have ever seen. If your heart is in good condition, see the movie. It's worth the price of the ticket.

ON TO OTHER things.

I think candy stores, bakeries and ice cream parlors could all increase business if they only hired skinny people. Nothing makes a person shy away from ordering a chocolate sundae faster than seeing a 300-pound man behind the counter.

SO YOU WANT to join the military?

Well, if that's your choice, no one is going to stop you. Especially the government. Just keep one thing in mind.

You see all the posters and hear all the promises the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines make concerning career opportunities in the respective branches of the service. Be it pilot or radio repair person, the job opportunity is there. Benefits such as travel, pay, long vacations and educations also exist.

However, the key element that is seldom mentioned is that as a member of the armed forces, your first duty is to fight. When the balloon goes up, you won't necessarily be asked to repair a radar or drive a truck or complete your education. You may be asked to fight and possibly die for your country.

To every seasoned military man, this goes without saying. To someone out of high school, heady with promises of a challenging military career, such a premise may not even enter into the picture.

It should.

SPEAKING OF LAWMAKERS, did you ever stop to wonder why we are becoming more and more a country of laws? Well consider this: the primary function of every state and federal representative is to create laws. That's his job.

Of course, he may also repeal laws, but that seldom happens.

So out of our democratic system of government, the proliferation of laws seems nearly inevitable.

ONE FINAL PROTEST. Have you seen the television ads for the new fall shows? Incredible. Some of the ads probably will take up more air time this summer than the show will this fall, if programs are cancelled at the same rate as last year.

An instructive DDT tale

By WYLIE GERDES

Public television scrambled some myths about DDT in a recent broadcast.

DDT, an insecticide now banned from use in the U.S., has been criticized for being a possible cancer-causing agent and also for harming wildlife.

The program, produced in Boston, artfully examined facts of the DDT controversy. In doing so, it sidelighted a whole nest of issues associated with evironmentalism.

The short life of DDT began during World War II, when it was discovered in Switzerland. The chemical saved thousands of lives during the war, lives of both civilians and soldiers.

ITS FIRST use was in Naples, a city clutched by an epidemic of typhus. The use of DDT saved hundreds of thousands of lives and was the first defeat of the disease.

After the war, American farmers began using massive amounts of DDT to improve crop production.

Scientists discovered that DDT takes decades to break down into other compounds. Studies showed the accumulation of DDT made birds lay thin-shelled eggs. Wild bird populations decreased.

Rachel Carson indicted DDT in her book "Silent Spring," the work which spawned the environmental movement.

Environmentalists began compiling evidence supporting banning of DDT. However, shortly before DDT was banned a few years ago, a government panel ruled that DDT could not be proven to be the cause of either human or animal health problems.

The Environmental Protection Agency banned DDT anyway.

IT WAS a political decision, obviously, and in this case a harmless political decision. A spokesman for a chemical company, reportedly the only one in the country which still makes DDT, said other chemicals had already replaced it in use. By the time it was banned, DDT was used in disease prevention overseas.

The banning of DDT might be the first big victory for environmentalists. In cases where evidence is much more damning than in the DDT matter, however, environmentalists have had more trouble winning.

The Reserve Mining controversy is an example. A mining company, apparently polluting Lake Superior with possibly harmful mining wastes, continues to operate in the face of many lawsuits.

THE LEGITIMATE concerns of environmentalism ought not to be ignored, as they were during the first 180 or so years of this country's existence. However, environmental concerns also ought not to automatically overrule any other consideration—such as jobs or national needs for energy.

Environmental considerations can be balanced with other issues. One only need drive the John Lodge freeway toward downtown Detroit to see an example. Only a few years ago, a hazy brown fog would have hung over downtown. Now downtown MURC readings are often the same as those taken in the suburbs.

The reason is that automobile pollution has been curtailed. Automobile pollution controls probably have cost some jobs, but the auto industry has not been destroyed.

Trustee backs position

Editor:

I feel that I must respond to the Aug. 7 letter from Ms. Van Vleck regarding the discussion of the "Total Woman" course as a possible offering of the Women's Resource Center at Schoolcraft College.

First, the impression seems to be that the Women's Advisory Committee or the Board of Trustees were trying to censor something. This is not the case! The board briefly discussed the issue and the Women's Advisory Committee felt, as do I, that the goals of this course are in opposition to the goals of the Women's Resource Center. I do not feel threatened and I do not think anyone else does. If anyone wants to rent space and offer this program at the college they may (by following proper procedures), but it should not be offered and/or sponsored by the Women's Resource Center. Wow! I don't call this censorship!

Second, certainly the desire to be a good wife and mother does not exempt one from seeking and achieving other goals. And even if this was one's only goal, fine. Ms. Van Vleck and I agree that having a career and being a wife and mother are equally important functions, and one can do both or either without downgrading either. That is what I meant.

I did say (and mean) that any course that proposes that one can save a failing marriage and live happily ever after by becoming a slave to a husband's every thought, word and deed, does downgrade the status of women by selling the idea that her thoughts, words and deeds mean nothing to a marriage. Pow!

Thursday, August 21, 1975 *1B

In their march away from stove, washing machine and sink, many women are discovering that to be truly liberated they must master the secrets of the internal combustion engine.

The fear that the motor of their car will die out on the highway, on a vacation trip, or even in their own driveways has driven substantial numbers of them into powderpuff mechanics courses offered by schools and Y's in the area.

Aware of the awakening interest on the part of women in such matters as oil pressure, generators and batteries, the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service have prepared a series of pamphlets on basic car care for the homemaker.

Designed to be read both before and after the car gives its last whimper and dies, the pamphlets can be regarded as a first step on the road to auto awareness.

"LET'S CONSIDER the gas gauge on your instrument panel," begins Howard J. Doss, Michigan State University agricultural engineering specialist.

The best practice is to drive on the upper half of the gas tank especially when on a long trip or driving through sparsely settled country.

"Keep it half full or better," says Doss, noting also that "a full tank also helps minimize excessive water condensation."

He also suggests learning the approximate number of miles your car will travel on a gallon of gas. Check the owner's manual for the tank capacity.

Fill the tank and record the mileage. Next time you fill up, subtract miles traveled from point of origin to point of refill. Divide the miles by the number of gallons used between fills, hence, miles per gallon estimate.

If your car runs low on gas during a trip, use your lowest miles-per-gallon estimate to determine about how far you can travel before refilling.

Reducing your speed to 45 or 50 mph can also give you more miles per gallon than you will get traveling at higher speeds.

DOSS WARNS that since occasionally a car may blow a fuse because of an electrical overload or short, you should know how to replace a fuse.

Every car has a fuse panel which functions much like that found in the home. A car's electrical circuit amperage will range from two to 20 amps.

The panel is usually located beneath the dashboard on the firewall near the steering column. You may need a flashlight to locate the panel.

Usually the fuses are small glass cylinders with metal caps on the ends upon which is stamped the amperage rating, Doss explains. A thin wire, which breaks on electrical overload, runs between the caps in the cylinder.

On some cars the fuse panel will have the amperage and the items the fuse services, stamped beside the fuse socket. If you need to replace a fuse be sure to turn off the ignition first.

Pry the burned-out fuse from the panel clips by using a fiber fuse puller or some non-metallic object like an ice cream stick. Replace the blown fuse with one of equal capacity (rated in amperes.)

Check your owner's manual to be sure your replacement fuse is the correct size for your particular vehicle.

Doss advises keeping a box of assorted fuses in the glove compartment. If a new fuse blows upon installation, have the electrical system checked by a mechanic.

OIL PRESSURE is another matter that Dodd feels women should understand. He wants them to learn what car instrument panel indicators — red lights, dial or gauges — mean from the standpoint of safety and potential costs.

One of the first things to notice is that when the key is turned on, all the red lights illuminate, just as the engine starts. This indicates they are working and none of the warning lights are burned out. If one is burned out, have the bulb replaced.

If the red warning light marked "oil" goes on while you are on the highway, pull to the shoulder of the road as quick as possible. Turn off the engine.

The red light comes on because several things could be wrong. There may not be enough oil in the motor. Or it may be a faulty oil pump or a malfunction by the oil indicator light.

Check the oil level in the engine by examining the dip-stick, which is usually found on the side of the engine. In some recreational vehicles the stick will be toward the front of the engine.

Pull the oil dip-stick out (not to be confused with the automatic transmission dip-stick), wipe it clean and reinsert. Pull it back out and read the calibration at the end. If it is very low or no oil trace appears, put in more oil before proceeding.

Under no circumstances should the car be driven if the oil warning light stays on, or if no oil registers on the dip-stick. Without oil pressure, excessive friction and heat quickly builds and it will ruin the engine.

The cost may amount to several hundred dollars.

LOSS OF OIL may occur from the bottom of the engine (oil pan) being punctured by a rock or chunk of ice, or because it was driven over a barrier such as a curb.

It could also be due to leaking gaskets or a loose oil drain plug located at the bottom of the engine.

Possibly, too, the oil pump may be defective. It is the job of the pump to transport oil from the oil pan to the top of the engine where various parts need lubricating.

In some vehicles, the red light indicator has been replaced by an oil pressure gauge. You should get in the habit of checking it frequently as you drive.

Some gauges have actual pressures calibrated on the dial in pounds per square inch (psi). Normal oil pressure ranges from 20 psi when the engine is idling to 60 psi at highway speed.

Some types of oil pressure gauges provided by automobile manufacturers contain only division marks, with the pointer being near verticle on the dial indicating "normal" oil pressure.

If the gauge goes out of the normal range, you could have trouble. Check the owner's manual to learn what the oil gauage calibrations mean.

DOSS ALSO HAS some suggestions about another red warning light.

When the one maked "GEN" (for generator) or "ALT" (for alternator) shines, it means the car battery is not receiving an adequate electrical charge.

For those cars with alternator or generator gauges, the needle may move toward "D" or a minus symbol to indicate discharging when the engine is stopped or at slow idle.

At fast idle or normal driving speeds, the needle should move toward "C" or a plus symbol to indicate charge.

When the battery is fully charged and the alternator or generator is providing adequate power supply, the needle will be slightly on the "C" or plus side of the center position of the gauge.

If the gauge indicates a continuous moderate to high charge under normal driving conditions, an experienced mechanic should be consulted.

Depending on the age of your battery, you may be able to drive a short distance for the help of a mechanic after the light or gauge has warned of electrical trouble.

DOSS NOTES that the malfunction may be caused by a broken or loose belt running to the alternator or generator from the engine. It may be owing to an electrical defect in the alternator or generator.

It could be because of defective wiring elsewhere in the car, or corrosion between the battery posts and cables.

When the battery fails to receive an adequate charge, it will lose its power reserve rapidly when used, depending on outside temperatures. Batteries lose power much sooner in winter than summer.

Headlights, heater fans, the radio and windshield wipers when run together draw heavily from the battery.

If car electrical power failure occurs, conserve as much electrical energy as possible by shutting off all unnecessary electrical equipment.

Doss warns that headlights will dim rapidly as battery power is drained. As lights dim, the vehicle becomes a traffic hazard.

If you must proceed when the "ALT" or "GEN" warning light is on or the gauge indicates severe discharge, be cautious and find help as quickly as possible.

Auto classes aimed at women

With the coming of fall, area women will have many opportunities to climb into coveralls and examine the inner mysteries of the internal combustion engine.

Powder Puff Mechanics I will start the season off with a roar at the Northwest Branch YWCA, 25940 Grand River, Redford Township.

To start Sept. 25, this five-week course will cost $16 plus a Y membership at $10 a year. Classes will be on Thursday from 7:30-9:30 p.m.

Plymouth Arts Council invites entries from area

Young areas artists have been asked by representatives of the Plymouth Community Arts Council to get out their pastels, oil, clay, wood and other materials and create art to exhibit at the council's arts and crafts show during the Plymouth Fall Festival.

The show will be Saturday, Sept. 6, from noon to 9 p.m. and Sunday, Sept. 7, from noon until 7 p.m. in Central Middle School at Church and S. Main.

"The young artists don't have to be from Plymouth," explained Mrs. Dorothy Meharg, who is in charge of the children's art booth. "The idea is to promote young talent and to encourage creativity. Anyone up to 18 can display something."

She said work in all media would be welcome, adding that in past years wall hangings, jewelry, bookmarks, plaques, key chains, paper weights, puppets, flower bottles, ruffled pillows, pot holders and candles were some of the items sold.

Exhibitors are asked to bring their work to the Central Middle School cafeteria on Friday, Sept. 5, after 4 p.m. Each young person must sign a form listing his name and address and the name and price of his product, so that records can be kept of how much he sold.

The arts council receives 10 percent of each exhibitor's sales.

"In our first year, the young people sold $100 worth of items," Mrs. Meharg said. "Last year they sold $300 worth. That adds up to a lot of items when you consider that some sell for as little as three for a nickle.

Easter Seals offers safety tips

"Perhaps the single most effective step auto travellers can take for safety is to use seat belts and harnesses every time they are in a moving car," says the Easter Seals Society.

Offering safety tips to prevent crippling accidents, the society adds that 8-10,000 lives could be saved each year if every motorist used safety belts all the time.

Safety precautions could prevent some 450 traffic deaths and 21,000 disabling injuries that usually occur over a three-day summer weekend.

Studies reported by a national safety council show that drinking is a factor in at least half of fatal motor vehicle accidents over holiday weekends, and that in three out of 10 fatal accidents, vehicles were being driven too fast.

The society suggests that besides an overall garage inspection for possible problem areas, a quick check of the car just before starting and periodicially during a trip can ensure peace of mind and greater security.

Check tires for inflation and road damage. Also check lights, windshield, windows, horn, mirrors for proper adjustment, steering for any excessive play, and brakes for at least one-inch pedal clearance from floor.

Observe to see if there is an adequate gas and oil supply and emergency equipment such as a first-aid kit, fire extinguisher and reflectors or flares.

The society also advises avoiding fatigue and distraction. Break up long stretches with a brisk walk, a short nap or a cup of coffee.

The driver should not have to supervise children's activities from behind the wheel. Driving is less nerve-wracking if children are occupied with toys and books.

Drivers should also recognize the need for reducing speed for heavy traffic, weather or poor road conditions and at night.

Drive defensively, and be ready for the unpredictable or dangerous actions of others.

Women and work will be U-M study

Community groups interested in how women's jobs can be made more fulfilling and other issues concerning women and work, may have a chance to take part in a new research project.

Under a grant recently awarded the University of Michigan Women's Studies program, a 15-month project is being designed to illuminate the concerns of working women via a series of discussion groups throughout the state, according to Caren J. Deming, project coordinator.

"Work" encompasses homemaking and volunteerism as well as the entire spectrum of paid occupations, says Ms. Deming.

In paticular, the researchers will examine the changing roles of women working at various stages of life and the ways that such needs as education and childrearing can best be integrated with a career.

THE DISCUSSIONS will be triggered by two videotapes which are being produced by Kim Beaman, award-winning free-lance video and film producer, and Lydia Kleiner, media consultant for the Women's Studies program and a doctoral student at the U-M.

"Tapes will be biographical portrayals of women in the context of their working lives," Ms. Kleiner said.

"The viewers will have an opprotunity to relate to the tapes in terms of their own experiences and to react to the issues they raise."

Five U-M faculty members will lead the discussions at meetings of service, business and labor organizations in communities throughout Michigan. They are Robin M. Jacoby, Elizabeth H. Pleck, Leslie W. Tentler and Marilyn B. Young, all of the history department, and Patricia D. Sharpe of the English department.

PROJECT DIRECTOR is Prof. Margaret A. Lourie, director of the U-M Women's Studies program. Joyce L. Kornbluh of the Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations and Joseph H. Pleck, visiting lecturer in psychology, are academic consultants.

Interested community groups who wish to take part in the research project during one of their meetings may call Caren Deming, Women and Work Project, 1058 LSA Building, Ann Arbor.

World's food shortage should be faced now

ECUMENICAL REFLECTIONS

BY REV. JAMES W. SCHAEFER
Pilgrim United Church of Christ

"When you woke up this morning, there were 210,000 new mouths waiting for breakfast. That's the daily increment of persons needing to be fed; 75 million new persons a year, a billion more by 1985."

These are words of David M. Stowe, executive vice-president of the United Church Board for World Ministries, at our recent conference annual meeting.

Dr. Stowe is executive of our board concerned with work of the United Church overseas—missionaries, doctors, food and clothing distribution, disaster relief, education—a huge work done in our name.

He receives reports from UCC personnel around the world. He knows what is happening.

HE SPOKE of the two largest nations on earth in terms of population.

"The most populous society on earth, the Chinese, with more than 800 million people on a land area comparable to the 48 United States, is now feeding itself with no visible difficulty," he said.

"Contrast that with India, the second most populous society, nearly 550 million people, with widespread malnutrition and many deaths by starvation year after year.

"And yet, India raises as much food per capita as China does. Obviously a major part of the food problem is distribution rather qhan total supply."

To summarize, Dr. Stowe suggested four ways in which the food population crisis can be met. First, by much improved distribution of present food production. Second, by lowering waste and making more efficient use of present foodstuffs.

Third, by increased production, which is possible in many parts of the world (we cannot feed the world, but the world could feed itself). Fourth, by lowering the growing population of the world.

WE CAN AGREE with these four areas of concern which point toward a solution. The problem is how.

Dr. Stowe used Bristol-Myers as a example of corporate food waste.

"One of the greatest forms of waste is the waste of human milk. A dangerous prejudice against breast feeding is spreading throughout much of the hungry world, the developing world.

"The baby bottle has become one of the major status symbols of progress and urbanization and liberation. These ideas didn't develop without help of some clever high-pressure salesmanship by infant formula manufacturers in our own country and Europe."

Now I have a quarrel with David Stowe. Toward the end of his address he stated, "We can feed the present population of the world.

"We can probably feed double the present population of the world, but we certainly can't feed four times or eight times the population of the world today.

"The basic problem is that population grows not arithmetically but geometrically. It took two million years to get our first billion human beings; 80 years to get the next billion; only 30 to get the next billion; 15 to get the next billion— that's about where we are now. It will take only 12 years before another billion arrives, and before long it will be a billion new people every year"

I have no quarrel with the church doing everything it can to help people of the world gain adequate food. Surely this is humanitarian work that we want to support.

But if we do not massively face the population problem right now, food for the world is a lost cause--and soon.

DR. STOWE suggested two ways in which the population growth can be slowed.

He stated that people must have a good reason for not having so many children. In the third world there are compelling reasons for having large families.

Secondly women have to have good alternatives to child bearing as a means to achieve identity and find meaning for their existence. Women's Liberation, world-wide, is the need.

But how do we reach these two goals? Look at the struggle for the rights of women in our "advanced" society. There we are. Who will face these difficult problems and seek realistic solutions? Think about that one.

FAMILY PLANNING is one of four ways suggested to deal with long-range food shortages.

Church begins kindergarten

Mrs. Janice Babler has been selected to teach the new kindergarten class in St. Matthew Lutheran School, 5885 Venoy, Westland.

A Sunday school teacher at St. Matthew Lutheran Church for five years and a member of the church choir, Mrs. Babler will take up her duties this fall in the church's elementary school.

A resident of Westland for 11 years, Mrs. Babler has been a member of St. Matthew for 10 years. Before her marriage she attended Valpariso University for two years. She attended Eastern Michigan University part-time from 1967-1972 during which time she earned her BA degree, with a major in early elementary education.

Church's expert says

Sewing is long-neglected craft

BY SHERRY KAHAN

"When I begin a sewing project, I aim to do it nicely and well," says Mrs. Evelyn Ankcorn of Livonia who will begin teaching a class in alteration techniques this fall at Grand River Baptist Church, Livonia.

"It's pleasant delightful work, and I have a picture in my mind of what I am working toward."

Mrs. Ankcorn's class will be one of three classes offered by the church during its regular Wednesday family evening program.

The activities include a family dinner at 6:15 p.m., then Bible study classes and later, such courses as knitting, car maintenance,and Mrs. Ankcorn's course in clothes alteration.

MRS. ANKCORN was a natural choice for the job. A member of the church for 47 years, she spent 40 years of her life working in garment alteration.

Do you want to know how much she enjoyed it?

"I'll tell you how much I enjoyed it," she says. "I went to work at J.L. Hudson with the idea of spending three months there."

Somehow this extended itself to 40 challenging years, with Mrs. Ankcorn often being asked by wives of Hudson executives to work on their clothes. Frequently she was driven to their homes in chauffered limousines.

DESPITE the fact she loved her profession, it was not her first choice. She yearned to apprentice in a millinery shop.

"They were so attractive and elegant. They were lovely to go into and they made a profound impression on me.

"At that time, decisions were made for girls. However, the fact that I was directed into another channel proved to be the best thing after all. Millinery shops faded.

"Sewing is of extreme importance today," she says. "Like many other crafts, it has been neglected. There has been stress on formal education, which is not for everyone. However, every woman should have enough knowledge to repair and maintain her own wardrobe.

"I've taken care of people who took pride in the fact that they didn't know how to sew on a button. They came all the way downtown to have a button sewn on.

"I told them it was their own fault."

THE THINKING behind her class, she explains,is that since most women today buy ready-to-wear garments, they ought to learn something about fitting clothing.

"Clothing mustn't show strain in various parts," says Mrs. Ankcorn. "So we will discuss how best to alter it.

During the same three month session as Mrs. Alkcorn's class, courses in beginning and advanced knitting will be taught by Mrs. Merle Brimhall and Mrs. Pete Middleditch.

General car maintainence will be taught by Bill Dotson, an engineer for American Motors Corp.

In the future, the church is planning Wednesday family night courses in photography, flower arranging, candlemaking and needlepoint.

Pastor teaches at conference.

The Rev, Fred Prezioso of Epiphany Lutheran Church, 41390 Five Mile, Plymouth, taught two couses called "The Pastor as Worship Leader and Coordinator" and "Corporateness in Worship", at a week-long workshop for pastors and church musicians at St. Scholastica College, Duluth.

Forty-seven pastors and musicians from the Lutheran Church in America, the American Lutheran Church, the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod and the Lutheran Church of Canada attended the workshop.

Rev. Prezioso also attended a week-long transing workshop in transactional analysis and Gestalt at the Huron Valley Institute in Ann Arbor.

Later he made a presentation on transactional analysis and its possible applications in the public school setting at a summer workshop of the Michigan Elementary School Principals Association.

PAUL SCHUMACHER

Gospel singer to appear in C'ville

Gospel singer Paul Schumaker, whose most recent record album is "I Could Never Out Love The Lord," will appear Friday, Aug. 22, at 7:30 p.m. in Clarenceville United Methodist Church, Livonia.

Born and raised in a farming community in northern Indiana, he began a career in radio broadcasting in Elkhart and later moving to the staff of the Moody Bible Insitute radio station in Chicago.

He is now in the gospel concert and recording field full time, and most of his concerts are in churches. Pre-recorded orchestral music provides the background for his singing.

Choir director joins workshop

Robert Peritch, choir director and organist at St. Matthew United Methodist Church, Livonia, recently attended the Fred Waring Music Workshop held annually on the campus of East Stroudsburg State College, Pa.

Workshoppers study in the areas of repertory, arranging, conducting, staging and lighting, sound and recording techniques, and church music.

Church of Christ hosts Little Angels

"Little Angels" is the name given to mentally handicapped children now being taught in a Bible class in Church of Christ, 1757 Middle Belt, Garden City.

"We think the people in the area might be interested in sending their mentally handicapped children to this class," said Winston Schloot. "We are planning to continue it on a year round basis."

Bible stories, prayers and songs will be taught along with classroom activities that will reinforce the Bible stories. Halibe Anderson is the teacher.

"Christian hearts have long felt for these special ones and their place in God's plans, that they, too, may be taught of God's great love for us and especially for them," added Schloot.

Classes will be each Sunday at 11 a.m. and each Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

In The Pocket

By W.W. EDGAR

It will be like old times when the league bowling season opens with the promise of three or four teams being in the battle for the championship.

In recent years the Stroh combination, paced by Mike Totsky, has dominated the scene. Long before a single ball was rolled, Stroh was considered the team to beat.

Things give promise of being different this year and at least three teams—Dale Sevoy's K&S squad, and the Goebel line-up out together by Tom Mc Kay, executive secretary of the Greater Detroit Bowling Association—are expected to fight it out all the way.

In what we now refer to as the "old days", back in the 30s and 40s, there were several teams in the thick of it with Stroh and even personal rivalries held much of the attention.

This was especially true in the case of Joe Norris, the Stroh captain, and Johnny Crimmins, the anchor man on Bob Thyne's Paris Cleaners team. Others among the top challengers included the Fife Electric team captained by Louie Burr. Prior to bowling for Fife this combination won the state title under the banner of Deluxe Tool and Die.

In this group, too, was Ellis Walker's Wilson Dairy team and the Pepsi Cola club captained by Cass Schlaff. Later, there was Lou Sieloff and the Pfeiffer and the E&B teams.

Over the years, Stroh has outlasted its rivals until this season and there promises to be some interesting nights before the titles are decided.

It is much the same in the women's leagues. In the "old days" the Olympic team, captained by Clara Allen, dominated the Detroit scene. Three members of the team are enshrined in the Detroit Bowling Hall of Fame. They are Clara, Stella Hartrick and the late Louise Stockdale.

During the Olympics' reign, the chief challengers were the late "Eddie" Coy's Colonial Broach team and Agnes Ekstrom's Gears by Enterprise that went on to win national acclaim.

Mrs. Ekstrom, considered one of the best spare bowlers in the country, is now president of the Detroit Woman's Bowling Association and an honoree in the Hall of Fame.

In recent years, Anita Cantaline's Jac-Ro team, with Elvira Toepfer, set the pace for the women. Then along came the Motown Record combination, Detroit Bowling Sales with Ann Setlock, and Dolly Auch's " Pinky's "Team to battle for honors. And it will be these same four teams favored to fight it out again for the title.

THE PROFESSIONAL BOWLERS make their only appearance of the year next week when Earl Anthony leads the field in the Columbia Open at Hartfield Lanes, in Berkley.

Starting with the pro-am on Sept. 28, the pros will be at it until Sept. 1 when the finals are expected to be on another dramatic struggle.

Anthony is the west coast bowler who won more than $100,000 last year and is well on his way to reach that mark again this season.

TWO INTERESTING facts came to light in a survey taken in the past week:

Westland Bowl will boast the largest women's league in the area during the coming seson with 60 teams on Tuesday afternoons, and the Rosedale Civic League that bowls at Livonia Lanes is one of the oldest circuits in the entire metropolitan area. It was organized when Clarence Hoffman, a former grocery store owner, opened the lanes in 1940.

Some idea of the strength of the various all-star teams will be formed next Monday night when a full field of 24 teams competes in the Gavie Sweepstakes at Hollywood Lanes on M-97.

This is the final warm-up as Bonanza Classic opens at Eastland Bowl on Tuesday night and the home portion of the schedule is set for Thursday at Orchard Lanes.

Meanwhile, the Ladies Major League, opens competition at Pine Tree Bowl on Wednesday. The Bowlerettes, the other strong women's circuit, will get under way the Monday following Labor Day.

Detroit Tigers offer 33 color baseball films

The Detroit Tigers have made three additions to their free lending library of baseball films.

The films include two annual productio. — 1974 All-Star Game" and "1974 World Series"—and a completely new production—"All-Star Pitching Tips," narrated by Whitey Ford, former New York Yankee star inducted into the Hall of Fame last summer.

The pitching film includes appearances by some of baseball's top pitchers, such as Jim Hunter, Tom Seaver, Bob Gibson, Tug McGraw, Mike Marshall, Claude Osteen, Nolan Ryan and Bert Blyleven.

All three films are 16 mm. color and sound, and are available with 30 others at Tiger Stadium for public showing where no admission is charged.

The films are entertaining, yet offer playing advice for youngsters interested in the sport.

Organizations wishing to borrow the films should contact the Film Department, Tiger Stadium, Detroit.

Robards highlights U-M theater season

The University of Michigan Professional Theatre Program (PTP) announces its 1975-76 season offering a variety of theatrical productions scheduled for performance in the university's Power Center for the Performing Arts, Mendelssohn Theatre, Trueblood Theatre and Arena Theatre.

The four distinct series of theatrical productions—including the play of the month series, City Center Acting Company, the guest artist series, and the university showcase—are designed to offer the finest in professional and university theatre.

A pre-Kennedy Center premier of Jason Robards in Eugene O'Neil's "Long Day's Journey Into Night" (Dec. 9-14) at the Power Center will highlight the play of the month series.

Robards is especially noted for his performance in other O'Neil dramas, including "The Iceman Cometh" and the recent Broadway hit, "A Moon for the Misbegotten," as well as his work in films and television. "Long Day's Journey Into Night" is not only a poignant autobiographical account of O'Neil's life, but also acclaimed by many critics as his finest work.

THE PLAY of the month series will include the musical, "Words and Music," with Sammy Cahn (Sept. 26-28); the musical "Irene" (Nov. 7-9); and two shows remaining to be announced with productions scheduled for September, February or April, depending upon the best available productions.

The nation's finest touring repertory company, the City Center Acting Company, under the direction of John Houseman, returns for its fifth season of residency in Ann Arbor, performing six plays during January and February. In addition to such classical comic masterpieces as Oliver Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," William Congreve's "The Way of the World" and George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man," the company will premiere a new American musical entitled "The Robber Bridegroom" and perform two pieces for young people as well. All City Center productions are scheduled for presentation in the Power Center.

A SELECTION of distinguished professional actors and directors join University theater actors, directors, and designers in the guest artist series, a growing and successfully designed program to bring the university and Professional Theatre Programs closer together.

Arthur Miller's drama "Death of a Salesman," winner of the 1949 Pulitzer Prize for drama, Oct. 8-12 in the Power Center.

William Shakespeare's romantic comedy "As You Like It," continues the series in Power Center, Nov. 26-30. The musical "Purlie" by Davis, Rose, Geld and Udele in performance Feb. 18-21, is one of the most popular and successful black musicals to date. Tennessee Williams' "Camino Real" closes the series in the Power Center, April 7-11.

IN ADDITION to the Power Center productions, the University Theatre department encourages its graduate students in direction and design by offering the University Showcase Productions, a diverse presentation of theatrical entertainment. A new black script opens the series Oct. 22-25 in Trueblood Theatre.

Nicolle Machiavelli's Italian Renaissance comedy "Mandragola" adds variety and interest to the showcase in the Arena Theatre Nov. 12-15. The winter showcase continues Jan. 28-31 with Joe Orton's comedy "Loot" in the Arena Theatre. Finally, Euripides classical Greek drama "Trojan Women" closes the series March 24-27 in Trueblood Theatre.

Subscriptions are on sale for the play of the month series at the PTP Ticket Office in the Mendelssohn Theatre lobby. Brochures are being prepared on all other offerings for the coming year.

Ann Danielski in camp drama

Ann Danielski of Livonia played the part of the Mock Turtle in the recent National Music Camp presentation of "Alice in Wonderland."

Ann is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Danielski of 15988 Westmore Court, Livonia. She will be a sixth grader at Buchahan Elementary School this fall.

Members of the cast doubled as stagehands, changing scenery and taking care of other stage chores.

Ann, a junior division camper, also is studying piano, violin and clarinet. Soccer and swimming are among her other activities. She is a member of the Interlochen Polar Bear Club which swims in the chilly waters of Lake Wahbekanetta at 6:30 each morning.

Ann is among more then 1,500 students at Interlochen this summer. Students come from all over the world to study at the camp.

Birge receives music award

John Birge of Plymouth has been selected as third alternate for an Interlochen National Music Camp scholarship for the 1976 season. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Birge of 1294 Maple, Plymouth.

The announcement was made recently at the final concert of the second all-state session which Birge attended and played French horn. He will be a sophomore at Plymouth Salem High School this fall. The winner and alternates are selected on the basis of outstanding musicianship, dependability and citizenship by all-state faculty, staff and students.

More than 1,000 high school and junior high school students from 184 Michigan communities attended the four two-week all-state sessions at Interlochen.

Theater plans comedy, drama, music in '75-76

Although the Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford hasn't staged any productions this summer, members haven't been on vacation. The newly elected board of directors has been busy selecting plays, choosing directors and making plans for the upcoming season. Members feel they have an fresh and varied schedule of entertainment.

The 1975-76 season opens Oct. 10 with the comedy thriller "Sleuth," by Anthony Shaffer. Performances are scheduled Oct. 11, 17, 18, 19, 24 and 25.

"Man with a Load of Mischief," an imaginative off-Broadway musical tale of romance and intrigue set in a wayside inn in 19th century England, is the guild's November and December offering.

A sudden accident to a coach and a gallant rescue bring to the inn four adventurous people—a lovely lady and her maid, and a dashing lord and his manservant. The stage is set for romance, something the innkeeper and his wife are eager to promote so that these guests will stay longer.

Performances are slated the last two weekends of November and the first weekend of December.

The season drama will be "The Rope Dancers." This first play by Morton Wishengrad won the respect and praise of New York critics when it was presented with a cast featuring Siobhan McKenna, Art Carney and Joan Blondell.

In soaring and poetic language, it tells the story of an Irish-American couple at the turn of the century caught up in a maelstrom of repressions and guilt. Performances are the last two weekends in February and the first weekend in March.

"Bus Stop," by William Inge, is the theater's classic comedy presentation for 1975-76. A bus out of Kansas City is stranded at a roadside cafe in a blinding snowstrom. An overnight scrap ensues between a spangled nightclub singer and the headstrong cowboy who has kidnapped her. Performances are slated in April and May.

Departing from its traditional scheduling, the guild plans to offer it children's show in the summer, traveling from park to park and school auditoriums.

Active and subscription membership tickets are now availalbe. There will be discount of $1 per person on memberships purchased by Sept. 12. This will provide a savings of 45 per cent to season ticket holders.

Because of limited seating in the guild playhouse, 15138 Beech Daly, Redford Township, a new reservation system is being instituted this season. It will be possible to reserve seats for the entire season. This is the same procedure used by the Fisher Theater in Detroit for season ticket holders.

For more ticket information, contact Mrs. Gregory G. Nelson, 30742 Ann Arbor Trail, Westland, or Mrs. Edward J. O'Connell, 29639 Robert Drive, Livonia.

Other directors include business, Jean Schirmer of Detroit; costumes, Emma Saley of Livonia; membership, Betty Kenney of Birmingham; tickets, Pam Nelson of Westland; prompter, Mary O'Connell of Livonia, and publicity, Judy Pierson of Livonia.

The theater group was organized in 1954 and has since offered more than 80 productions. It also awards nominal scholarships to Redford and Livonia high school graduates pursuing a theater major in college. The guild has captured top honors in every local and state competition in which it has participated. It is non-profit and self-sustaining but needs community support.

Suburban Chorale sets rehearsals

The Suburban Chorale, sponsored by the Livonia Department of Parks and Recreation, will begin rehearsals Wednesday, Sept. 3 at 7:30 p.m. in Clarenceville High School, 20155 Middle Belt, Livonia.

The women's chorus is directed by Bruce Graden, vocal director at Westland's John Glenn High School. Pianist is Mrs. Patricia Claypoole. President is Mrs. Mary Ann Robertson.

Members are welcome from all metropolitan communities. Presently the chorus has singers from Livonia, Farmington Hills, Southfield, Plymouth, Detroit, Redford Township, Westland, Garden City, Inkster and South Lyon.

Anyone interested in joining the group should call Yvonne Boniff, membership chairman, 36195 Grand River, Farmington.

The chorale sings for civic groups, nursing homes, and performs a Christmas concert in December. Organizations can arrange a concert by calling Theresa Fuss, business manager, 16632 Parklane, Livonia.

In the morning, orange juice, donuts and magazines will be provided for seniors free. Agencies dealing with Medicare, Medicaid, Social Security and food stamps will be on hand to answer questions. There also will be an arts and crafts display with persons available to answer handicraft questions. Plymouth's Jeff Roth concludes jr. career

By CORINNE ABATT

Michigan lost one of its most promising young golfers last week when Jeff Roth left to begin his freshman year at the University of Arizona.

The loss may not be permanent. Roth, a 17-year-old Plymouth-Salem High School graduate who plays out of Farmington Country Club, may return to area links for tournaments during his summer vacations.

Roth will turn 18 next month, and that birthday will bring an end to a brilliant junior tournament career. Seventeen is the top age for junior tournament players.

Roth played in his last junior tourney two days before leaving for Tuscon and the University of Arizona. That was the State Junior Tournament at Port Huron, and Roth was leading when it was called because of rain. Roth won the tourney in 1973 and finished second last year.

In this year's tourney, he shot a disappointing 77, but then picked up four strokes to take the lead when play was called.

Two weeks ago Roth was in Nashville, Tenn. for the U.S. Junior championships. He qualified for match play, but was finally beaten by the tournament champion. He was the junior district champion this year and last. He also played in the 1974 Michigan Open and made the cut.

"I HAVEN'T PLAYED in as many national tournaments as I would have liked," Roth said. "I played in the North and South Amateur this spring at Pinehurst, N.C. I qualified for match play and felt pretty good about that.

"The International Junior Tournament at Coral Gables, Fla. last December was a really good tournament for me. I had an 80 on the first round, but was low on the last three with a 72, 70 and 71. That brought me up to ninth place. The greens gave me trouble in the first round, but I had them figured out by the next day."

Roth has crammed a lot of golf into his summers since first playing on a par-three course at Wauwatosa, Wisc. at the age of eight.

"I didn't like golf that much when I was little," he said. "My dad watched it on TV, but I thought it was boring. Dad had a set of clubs and we went out to play. I think it cost 25 cents for nine holes.

"Then pretty soon we had about 20 kids who liked to play. We'd ride our bikes with our clubs on our shoulders, and we'd play before and after school every day. The kids, mostly fourth, fifth and sixth graders, came out in herds to play."

Roth's family moved to Plymouth six years ago, and Jeff continued to improve his game. He captained Plymouth-Salem's golf team for the past two years leading the Rocks to two regional and Suburban Eight league titles, as well as the State Class A championship in his junior year.

Mental discipline is an important part of Roth's game. The ability to figure and think things through while playing is one of the qualities which separates the would-bes from the tournament champs, he said.

"SEE, GOLF IS more mental than physical. Anybody with a good build can hit the ball.

"But if a golfer doesn't have it upstairs—if he starts yelling, throws his clubs, gets down on himself—then he's not going to score well."

Roth is a golf fan as well as a player. His favorite is Jack Nicklaus. During the recent Police Athletic League (PAL) Tournament at Wabeek, he followed Lee Trevino and Johnny Miller and caught J.C. Snead whenever possible.

"They were exciting players to watch," Roth said.

As he talked about his tournaments and his scores, Roth said that he must have sounded rather boastful. He said that he didn't want to leave that impression. It's just that he likes to play and he likes to play well.

Roth plans to major in business administration while at the University of Arizona on a golf scholarship.

"If I'm good enough, I'd like to turn pro someday," he said. "But that's a long way away."

Detroit Little Caesar's bounces Redford Adray from tournament

Redford Adray made it all the way to the semi-finals of the Adray League National Championships this week before running into Detroit Little Caesar's Monday and losing 4-0.

Lary Sorenson, a Mt. Clemens L'Anse Creuse product who will be a junior at the University of Michigan next year, was too much for the Redford team to handle as he cuffed coach Bob Atkins' squad on two hits, striking out 13 and not allowing a runner past first.

A victory in that game would have put Redford into the finals of the tournament. But Sorenson, who was picked up by Little Caesar's from Adray Appliance, was virtually untouchable.

Only four runners reached base for Redford. With two outs in the first, Kevin Bara walked. With one out in the third, John Bolland singled to the opposite field. With one out in the fourth, Gary Wasilewski singled to left and with two out in the fifth, Jeff Hodgkins walked.

No Redford runner could advance any further, however, and Sorensen retired the final 13 batters in a row.

John Bolland started the final game for Redford and allowed two runs in the second and one in the fourth before giving way to Jeff Hodgkins in the fourth. Hodgkins allowed one unearned run and four hits for the remainder of the game.

Redford won a pair of games Saturday to up its record to 4-1 in the double elimination tournament.

Redford squeaked by Philadelphia 3-2 in the first game and ousted Washington 4-0 in the nightcap.

John Bolland and Kevin Smith combined for the win in the Philadelphia game, limiting the Keystone State entrant to only four hits.

Redford picked up a run in the second inning of that game when Gary D'Ascenzo, who had walked, scored on a throwing error by the Philadelphia second baseman.

Redford added two in the third when Smith singled; Dan Burke, who went three-for-four, doubled; Mark Yourchock hit a sacrifice fly and Bob Wasilewski doubled to left.

Steve Hodgkins started for Redford in its 4-0 thumping of Washington but Tom Willette came on in the fourth to hold Washington to one hit the rest of the way and pick up the win.

Redford exploded for three runs in its fourth when Jeff Hodgkins walked with the bases loaded to force in one run and Dan Burke followed with a double to drive in another pair.

SHORTSTOP GARY D'ASCENZO walked and eventually scored on a throwing error in the second inning to put Redford on the board in its 3-2 victory over Philadelphia Saturday. Redford was eliminated from competition at Johnstown Pa. Monday by Detroit Little Caesar's 4-0.

Redford Snyder's defends MMTL tournament title

Snyder's of Redford repeated as champion of the Major Metro Travel League Tournament of Champions, winning five straight games in the 18-team tournament which was played last weekend in Southgate.

Coach Jim Snyder's team nailed down the $1,500 first prize by edging Major Metro rival Uniroyal of East Detroit in the championship game, 9-8. Snyder's broke a 5-5 tie in the fifth inning, scoring three times on a two-run homer by John Hinds and a solo shot by Jim Mitchell, added a run in the seventh on an RBI double by Dave Rhodes, then stood off a last-ditch Uniroyal rally in the bottom of the seventh that ended with the tying run on second base.

Earlier, Snyder's scored a big victory over one of the pre-tournament favorites, Copper Hearth, of Milwaukee, rallying for two runs in the bottom of the seventh to win, 10-9. The tying run scored on a sacrifice fly by Doug Gerdes and the winner on another fly ball by Rhodes. Gerdes also had three homes in that game—a three-run blast, a two-run shot and one with the bases empty—for a total of seven RBIs. Gerdes was voted the most valuable player of the tournament.

The loss dropped Copper Hearth into the loser's bracket, and the Milwaukee club then was eliminated by Uniroyal in a tight 2-1 contest.

In its other victories, Snyder's demolished HB Hideaway of Detroit, 20-5 as Matt Partridge blasted three homers and knocked in eight runs; defeated Transport Oil of Milwaukee, 14-9, wiping out an 8-2 deficit behind the home-run hitting of Gerdes, Mitchell and Larry Elkins; and took the measure of Jack's Tavern of Wyandotte, 14-5, as Mitchell banged two homers and a double and batted home five runs.

Gerdes, Mitchell, Partridge and Lonnie Parker were named to the tournament's all-star team.

Snyder's now moves on to the World Series sponsored by the United States Slowpitch Softball Association which will be played over the Labor Day weekend in New York.

Irony in new Wolverine mark

All's well that ends well, or what a difference a day makes, the latest example of those old truisms being Wolverine Raceway's newest driving ace Shelly Goudreau.

The 27-year-old Canadian teamster pulled the four-year-old pacer Baron Mave to the outside at the head of the stretch last Saturday and blazed to the finish wire in the new all-time track record time of 1:57.1. But for the young Goudreau it all wasn't as easy as it sounds.

Just the Saturday before Goudreau had also seemed to be heading down the home stretch to a new track mark. He was neck and neck with the Chicago invader Rambling Willie when suddenly his pacer, Grover C, veered sharply toward the rail and his opponent. Twice Grover C pulled the stunt, obviously impeding the race progress of the other horse, and although he finished first he was almost immediately disqualified by the judges.

Down the drain, too, went what would have been a Wolverine Mile record of 1:57.3. Even though he has already established himself as one of the finest young driving prospects in the country, Goudreau was clearly despondent over the incident.

"Grover C has had a few aches and pains and I guess he just got to hurting," Shelly said. "I couldn't hold him and we blew the whole thing."

Actually this past Saturday night didn't seem to be starting out much better for Goudreau. It wasn't the Wolverine feature race, but Shelly found himself and the rather unheralded Baron Mave in with a real gang of pacing wildcats. There were Tiger Jet, Springs Pride, Dancing Knox, Peter Lobell and Ickawowie, and his was the only horse that had never won in 2-minutes or less.

The looks of things didn't improve much when the head check on Baron Mave's harness popped loose behind the starting gate and forced a recall of the race start.

"I simply coulnd't believe it, either, when he threw the shoe on his right front foot leaving the gate the second time," Goudreau relates. "There we were in last place and racing with three shoes."

The race became so hotly contested that Peter Lobell, Tiger Jet and Dancing Knox had all taken turns with the lead by the time the three-quarters mark was reached. A brand new track record was also obviously in store with the timer board flashing quarter mile fractions of :29.1, :59-flat and 1:27.4. And Goudreau and Baron Mave were still trailing the field.

Golf course ready for O&E tourney

Livonia's Whispering Willows Golf Course, site of next month's seventh annual Observer & Eccentric Open Golf Tournament, is a showcase in deception.

"The course isn't that long, but it's tight," assistant Whispering Willows pro Tom Shelton said Monday.

The 6,400-yard course at Newburgh and Eight Mile is presently in its best condition ever and that means plenty of trouble for golfers who don't slam the little white ball arrow straight.

Bedecked with trees seemingly everywhere, the par-71 course can prove a nightmare for those with a propensity to hook or slice even the slightest bit.

"That's what gets golfers in trouble the most. There's a lot of wood out there," Sheldon said.

Water also can be a problem. The course has five holes with water.

Construction recently was completed on the 14th and 18th holes making them tougher than ever but the entire course will get a facelift for the Sept. 13 and 14 men's tournament and Sept. 18 women's competition.

"We'll let the rough grow a lot thicker and shape the fairways more. Also we'll cut the greens very short to make them fast," Shelton said.

The Livonia municipal course is one of the busiest in the entire state. Last month, for example, it averaged 384 players daily and hit a one-day high of 521. In spite of this, the tees, fairways and greens remain in very good shape and the expected 200 golfers for the O&E tourney should face a formidable task hitting par.

"Considering the amount of people who use the course, it's in excellent shape. A lot of credit is due to our groundskeeper Jim Trenner who has been the head man in that department for all eight years that the course has operated," said Shelton.

As an assistant pro, Shelton gets on the course regularly and has hit a personal best of one-under 70 there.

That mark is far off the course record of 65 set by touring Canadian pro Bill Wakem four years ago. But according to Shelton, not many golfers play scratch golf on the course.

Last year, for example, a two-over 144 was good enough for top prize in the championship flight of the four-flight men's tourney. That score was hit by Farmington's Bill Curtis.

"There are several tough holes on the course. Probably the two toughest are the back-to-back par four 11th and 12th holes. It takes a real good golfer to get through those two in eight," said Shelton.

If past years are any indication, there'll be several golfers in this year's largest field who'll be shooting not only those two holes, but the whole course at or near par.

Plymouth boosts 1st female justice of peace in Michigan

(Part I)

The best-known woman in Plymouth in the 1920s was a tall, majestic, white-haired housewife and mother of twins, Mrs. Phoebe Patterson.

Mrs. Patterson, the first woman justice of the peace in Michigan, received statewide notice in 1920. In that year, she was the key figure in a Detroit court case in which her right, as a woman, to hold office was challenged.

During the case, it was contended that a woman's services, thoughts and actions were the property of her spouse, and that Judge Patterson's husband, therefore, had a legal right to exercise a coercive influence over her.

Not that Mrs. Patterson's husband harbored such male chauvinistic thoughts. The suit was started by a Detroit lawyer, piqued because he had to plead, before a woman judge, a case which he lost.

PLYMOUTH—PAST AND PRESENT by Sam Hudson

THE DAUGHTER of Narcis and Margaret Ely, 'Phoebe,' as she was widely known in Plymouth, was born in neighboring Superior Township and educated in the public schools there.

In 1873, at age 16, she moved to Ypsilanti, where she opened a dressmaking shop. In 1878, she married Melvin A. Patterson, a native of Plymouth, whose family had lived here for many years.

Mr. Patterson, who worked at the Hamilton Rifle Co., a short distance from his home, died in 1921, two years after his wife was elected to office. She survived him by 10 years. The Pattersons had three children—twins, Clara and Clarence, and a son who died at an early age. Clara Patterson (Mrs. Arthur Todd) was the girl whose remembrances of the Plymouth Fair are reported in another chapter.

Mrs. Patterson was elected justice of the peace in April, 1919, at the age of 62. She was the first of her sex to hold the office. A staunch Republican, and a fighter for the rights of women, she had attended a political caucus with a couple of friends shortly before women got the right to vote. A friend of hers, a doctor, rose at the meeting and nominated her for the position. Surprised, she demurred, but was nominated and subsequently elected.

"She never was in a court room until she ran for office," the Detroit Free Press reported on Sept. 15, 1920. "Then she came to Detroit and spent a half-day listening to the city judges. That showed her the trick, she says. She also had assimilated a lot of valuable points, she believes, by reading cases reported in the newspapers. Only last week she nicked a county highway commissioner $10 for speeding."

MRS. PATTERSON may have had little experience in judicial matters, but she learned quickly.

During her 12 years on the bench she earned the confidence of county authorities who praised her efficiency and judgment. Reportedly, there was "no justice of the peace in Wayne County in which the prosecutor's office placed greater confidence," than Phoebe Patterson.

In 1927, eight years after she became justice of the peace, a newspaper reported that during her time on the bench she had heard 1,009 county criminal cases, from serious to minor in nature, had conducted 17 coroner's inquests, and had officiated at 11 marriages.

Her capacity for work was prodigious. The Plymouth Mail declared that she was the most active of the four justices in Plymouth Township. In those days, the township had four justices; the village had none. Perry Richwine recalls that one of the other justices in the 1920s was Bill Webber, who lived on Sheldon Road near the present Ford heater plant.

JPs could hear cases from adjoining townships. That Mrs. Patterson's record was favorably noted in neighboring townships is evident from the many cases brought to her court from outside the community.

Richwine, who was beginning his practice as an attorney in Plymouth in the late 1920s, remembers that Judge Patterson was popular with everyone except defense lawyers. They claimed that no amount of evidence would sway her once she had made up her mind. Richwine, who tried several cases before her, says she was always good to him.

JUDGE PATTERSON'S reputation as an ardent member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was well known.

During the prohibition era, state officials brought to her court offenders charged with bootlegging. Inebriated hoboes, picked up at the railroad junction by George Springer, the village's one-man police force, were also hailed before Mrs. Patterson. They received little sympathy. Her usual practice of giving them 30 days in jail earned her the nickname "Thirty-day Phoebe." On the other hand, two trouble-making boys brought before her were merely sentenced to attend church. Mrs. Patterson's courtroom was the front room of her house, built by her husband in 1882 with the assistance of his father. The house still stands at 207 Ann Arbor Trail, adjacent to the railroad tracks. It remained in the Patterson family for 78 years, being sold in 1960.

The court case, which made Mrs. Patterson well-known throughout the state, had its origin when the judge summoned William Leibnitz, a Detroit baker, to appear before her on Nov. 29, 1919. The charge was non-payment of a note on an automobile he had purchased. She found him guilty, much to the chagrin of his lawyer, James Pound.

(Part II will describe the court case in which Judge Patterson was defended by Paul Voorhies, a native of Plymouth who later became well-known on the state political level).

City approves dental package

The City of Plymouth approved a two-year dental insurance policy for its 76 employes at Monday night's city commission meeting.

The dental protection will cover DPW workers, non-union employes, the firefighters union, whose contract was ratified by the commission Monday, and the police officers, whose contract is still unsettled.

THE CITY received a price of $10,000 per year for its insurance premium for the dental fringe benefit — $5,000 lower than the closest bidder.

The commission approved the low bid of Great West Assurance Co. for a two-year policy. For routine dental work, the city will pay 60 per cent of the expense and employes the balance. For major work, the cost will be split 50-50. Coverage does not include orthodontic work.

City Manager Fred Yockey said the policy will cover police officers when an agreement is reached with the Teamsters for the police department. Dental insurance has been discussed with police during negotiations, he said, but has not yet been made as a definite offer.

THE COMMISSION unanimously ratified the new contract with the firefighters, despite some reservation over an agency shop clause.

The contract calls for a seven per cent across-the-board wage increase — the same granted to the DPW — plus a $50 per month food allowance increase for a total of $275 per year per man.

The agency clause provides that any member of the fire department, except for the chief, who doesn't belong to the union must pay $15 per month union dues. Union membership isn't required. The DPW and police have had agency shop agreements, but this is the first time the clause has been added to the firefighters contract.

Commissioner Harold Guenther questioned the agency shop provision but Yockey said the city had no choice because it would lose if the issue were taken to arbitration, especially because the other two city unions have an agency clause.

"This is a very good contract and one we can live with," said Yockey.

OTHER PROVISIONS of the firefighters contact, carried over from previous agreements, include a residency clause that firefighters must live within a six-mile radius of city hall.

a maximum of $600 per year; clothing allowance of $300 per year; plus the dental insurance.

With the new wages, a beginning firefighter will earn $11,557 per year, $14,822 for the second year rate and up to $16,425 for the fourth year. Lieutenants will be paid $17,810.

The commission also voted to raise the pay of non-union employes to match the increase given the DPW and firefighters. Last July, non-union employes were given a 5½ per cent wage increase which was raised to seven per cent Monday night.

The commission also delayed until its Sept. 15 meeting a request for a Class C license extension. The license is for a family-type restaurant open evenings-only to be operated by R. Terry Cuson at 555 Forest.

Alcohol program begins Sept. 9

EACH SESSION will be held in 35th District Court on the second floor of Plymouth City Hall, 201 S. Main.

Session two will be Tuesday, Sept. 16, at 8 p.m. and will feature a two-member Alcoholics Anonymous and two-member Alanon panel discussion on how alcohol has affected their lives and how AA or Alanon have helped them.

PLYMOUTH Community Fall Festival

THURSDAY-SATURDAY SEPTEMBER 4-5-6-7

September — the time of harvest. The great time of toil is over and the gathering and storing begins. The apples sweeten in the orchards, the golden pumpkins glow in the fields.

September in Plymouth is Community Fall Festival month. This traditional four day harvest celebration arrives with the first week of the month and follows weeks of work by the community's outstanding service clubs and civic organizations.

The Plymouth Business & Professional Women's Club always have a mouthwatering meal waiting for those who enjoy German fare and "German Night" will once again kick off the festival. In fact, festival food seems to have adopted the names of the clubs that serve it. Neighbors will invite neighbors to "come with us for Lions fish, Kiwanis pancakes, Jaycee beef, or Rotary chicken."

There is something for everyone during these four fun filled days — an antique show, an art show, and a pet show. There'll be authentic "old fashioned" costumes, and authentic "old fashioned" automobiles.

We can hardly wait. We know it means the end of summer, but we can't imagine a more pleasant ending — or beginning of a new season.

Once again your hometown newspaper will publish an informative "Plymouth Community Fall Festival" section with details of festival events, maps on where to find things, times of when things begin, and messages from Plymouth business people. Look for this colorful and very special section Tuesday, September 2. And we'll look for you at the festival.

(For the aforementioned business people who wish to place their message in this section, please call Audrey Roof or Rosemary Greening at 261-8600)
